Splunk Phantom Certified Admin Sample Questions (Q87-Q92):

NEW QUESTION # 87

Which Phantom VPE Nock S used to add information to custom lists?

- A. Filter blocks
- B. Decision blocks
- C. API blocks
- D. Action blocks

Answer: C

Explanation:

Filter blocks are used to add information to custom lists in Phantom VPE. Filter blocks allow the user to specify a list name and a filter expression to select the data to be added to the list. Action blocks are used to execute app actions, API blocks are used to make REST API calls, and decision blocks are used to evaluate conditions and branch the playbook execution. In the Phantom

Visual Playbook Editor (VPE), an API block is used to interact with various external APIs, including custom lists within Phantom. Custom lists are key-value stores that can be used to maintain state, aggregate data, or track information across multiple playbook runs.

API blocks allow the playbook to make GET, POST, PUT, and DELETE requests to these lists, facilitating the addition, retrieval, update, or removal of information. This makes API blocks a versatile tool in managing custom list data within playbooks.

NEW QUESTION # 88

Which of the following is a way to access lists?

- A. Navigate to Advanced Settings.
- B. Navigate to the Investigation page.
- C. Navigate to Asset Settings.
- D. Navigate to Playbooks.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 89

Which of the following can the format block be used for?

- A. To generate HTML or CSS content for output in email messages, user prompts, or comments.
- B. To create text strings that merge state text with dynamic values for input or output.
- C. To generate string parameters for automated action blocks.
- D. To generate arrays for input into other functions.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 90

During a second test of a playbook, a user receives an error that states: 'an empty parameters list was passed to phantom.act()'. What does this indicate?

- A. The playbook is using an incorrect container.
- B. The playbook debugger's scope is set to new.
- C. The container has artifacts not parameters.
- D. The playbook debugger's scope is set to all.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The error message "an empty parameters list was passed to phantom.act()" typically indicates that the action being called by the playbook does not have the required parameters to execute. This can happen if the playbook expects certain data to be present in the container's artifacts but finds none. Artifacts in Splunk SOAR (Phantom) are data elements associated with a container (such as an event or alert) that playbooks can act upon. If a playbook action is designed to use data from artifacts as parameters and those artifacts are missing or do not contain the expected data, the playbook cannot execute the action properly, leading to this error.

NEW QUESTION # 91

After a playbook has run, where are the results stored?

- A. Container
- B. Splunk Index
- C. Case
- D. Log file

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

The correct answer is C because after a playbook has run, the results are stored in the container that triggered the playbook. The container is a data object that represents an event or a case in Phantom. The container contains information such as the name, the description, the severity, the status, the owner, and the labels of the event or case. The container also contains the artifacts, the action results, the comments, the notes, and the phases and tasks associated with the event or case. The answer A is incorrect because after a playbook has run, the results are not stored in a Splunk index, which is a data structure that stores events from various data sources in Splunk. The Splunk index is not directly accessible by Phantom, but can be queried by Phantom using the Splunk app. The answer B is incorrect because after a playbook has run, the results are not stored in a case, which is a type of container that represents a security incident in Phantom. The case is a subset of the container, and not all containers are cases. The answer D is incorrect because after a playbook has run, the results are not stored in a log file, which is a file that records the activities or events that occur in a system or a process. The log file is not a data object in Phantom, but can be a data source for Phantom. Reference: Splunk SOAR User Guide, page 19.
