CompTIA Cloud+ (2025) Sample Questions (Q92-Q97):

NEW QUESTION # 92

A company wants to combine solutions in a central and scalable environment to achieve the following goals:

- * Control
- * Visibility
- * Automation
- * Cost efficiency

Which of the following best describes what the company should implement?

- A. Workload orchestration
- B. Containerization
- C. Application modernization
- D. Batch processing

Answer: A

Explanation:

Workload orchestration is the best description of what the company should implement to achieve control, visibility, automation, and cost efficiency. It involves using orchestration tools to manage workloads in cloud environments, ensuring resources are used efficiently and operations are automated.

Workload orchestration is a part of cloud management strategies discussed under the Management and Technical Operations domain in the CompTIA Cloud+ objectives.

NEW QUESTION # 93

A software engineer notices that the newest update to the reporting software includes many new features that were not defined in the requirements document. Which of the following steps should the engineer take next?

- A. Disregard the update
- B. Edit the requirements document
- C. Seek approval before continuing
- D. Notify the users of the new features

Answer: C

Explanation:

When scope changes occur, proper change management is critical. The engineer must submit the change for formal approval before moving forward. Skipping approval would violate governance processes and may introduce compliance or contractual risks.

NEW QUESTION # 94

A cloud administrator learns that a major version update, 4.6.0, is available for a business-critical application. The application is currently on version 4.5.2, with additional minor versions 3, 4, and 5 available. The administrator needs to perform the update while minimizing downtime. Which of the following should the administrator do first?

- A. During off hours, decommission the machine and create a new one directly on major update 4.6.0.
- B. Stop the service and apply the major updates directly.
- C. Create a test environment and apply the major update
- D. Apply the minor updates and then restart the machine before applying the major update.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The first step the administrator should take is to create a test environment and apply the major update there. This allows for testing the new version without impacting the production environment, thus minimizing downtime and the potential for unexpected issues.

NEW QUESTION # 95

A cloud engineer is in charge of deploying a platform in an IaaS public cloud. The application tracks the state using session cookies, and there are no affinity restrictions. Which of the following will help the engineer reduce monthly expenses and allow the application to provide the service?

- A. Dedicated host
- B. Pay-as-you-go model
- C. Resource metering

- D. Reserved resources

Answer: B

Explanation:

A pay-as-you-go model would be beneficial for the cloud engineer because it allows the application to be scaled based on demand, reducing monthly expenses since costs are only incurred for the resources actually used. Since there are no affinity restrictions and the application uses session cookies for state tracking, the pay-as-you-go model can handle fluctuating workloads without the need to pay for unused reserved resources or dedicated hosts. NEW QUESTION # 96

A social networking company operates globally. Some users from Brazil and Argentina are reporting the following error: website address was not found. Which of the following is the most likely cause of this outage?

- A. DNS propagation issues
- B. Client DNS misconfiguration
- C. Regional DNS provider outage
- D. DNS server misconfiguration

Answer: C

Explanation:

The most likely cause of the outage, with users from specific regions like Brazil and Argentina reporting an error that the website address was not found, is a regional DNS provider outage.

This type of outage would affect users in particular areas, preventing domain name resolution and leading to the reported error.
