CFA Institute Sustainable Investing Certificate (CFA-SIC) Exam Sample Questions (Q520-Q525):

NEW QUESTION # 520

A concept that attempts to describe what would happen to global temperatures if CO₂ concentrations in the atmosphere were to double relative to the pre-industrial average is best described as:

- A. climate change.
- B. climate sensitivity.
- C. transient climate response.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The concept described is climate sensitivity, formally defined as the change in Earth's surface temperature resulting from a doubling of atmospheric CO₂ compared to pre-industrial levels. This encompasses equilibrium climate sensitivity (long-term warming after all feedback loops settle) and transient climate response (shorter-term warming before full equilibrium). While transient climate response is a specific short-term measure, the broader principle of warming after CO₂ doubling is referred to as climate sensitivity.

NEW QUESTION # 521

Which of the following statements about ESG integration in fixed income is most accurate?

- A. Municipal bonds cannot be used for ESG integration.
- B. Equity investors typically place greater emphasis on ESG factors that affect balance sheet strength compared to fixed-income investors.
- C. Credit rating agencies attempt to capture the risk of contingent liabilities in their sovereign credit ratings.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The OTM discusses fixed-income integration extensively, stating:

"Credit rating agencies increasingly consider contingent liabilities such as environmental remediation, pension deficits, and sovereign guarantees in their rating methodologies." These liabilities represent ESG-related risks that can affect a sovereign's debt-servicing capacity. The manual clarifies that while equity investors emphasize profitability and growth, credit analysts focus on downside protection, balance sheet strength, and cash flow resilience—making ESG particularly relevant in sovereign ratings.

Municipal bonds (option A) are, in fact, widely used in ESG integration (especially green and social bonds), while option C reverses the emphasis between asset classes. Thus, option B accurately reflects the OTM guidance.

NEW QUESTION # 522

Which of the following has the long-term goal to keep the increase in global average temperature to well below 2°C (3.6°F) above pre-industrial levels?

- A. The Kyoto Protocol
- B. The UN Framework Convention on Climate Change
- C. The Paris Agreement

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Paris Agreement has the long-term goal to keep the increase in global average temperature to well below 2°C (3.6°F) above pre-industrial levels.

Global Climate Accord: The Paris Agreement, adopted in 2015 under the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), aims to strengthen the global response to climate change by keeping the temperature rise well below 2°C above pre-industrial levels, and to pursue efforts to limit the temperature increase to 1.5°C.

Long-term Goals: The agreement sets long-term goals to guide countries in reducing greenhouse gas emissions, enhancing adaptation efforts, and ensuring that finance flows support low-emission and climate-resilient development.

Commitments and Contributions: Countries are required to submit nationally determined contributions (NDCs) outlining their plans to reduce emissions and adapt to climate impacts. These contributions are to be updated every five years with increasing ambition.

NEW QUESTION # 523

Which of the following statements about potential bias in ESG credit ratings is most accurate?

- A. Higher unionization levels in Europe explain sector bias
- B. Larger companies may obtain higher ratings given the ability to dedicate more resources to nonfinancial disclosures
- C. Industry bias stems from rating providers overcomplicating industry weighting and company alignment

Answer: B

Explanation:

CFA materials note that larger companies tend to have more resources for detailed ESG reporting, which can inflate ESG ratings compared to smaller companies. This is often referred to as a reporting or disclosure bias rather than purely a performance difference. The other statements do not align with the recognized biases in ESG credit ratings.

NEW QUESTION # 524

A company has an audit contract with one Big Four firm and non-audit contracts with two other Big Four firms. Which scenario is most likely to materialize when the company rotates its auditors?

- A. There will be a sub-optimal level of competition for the audit
- B. The new auditor will miss material issues that the existing auditor would have identified
- C. The new auditor will be eligible for new non-audit contracts

Answer: A

Explanation:

When a company rotates auditors but has non-audit contracts with two other Big Four firms, there is a reduced level of competition for audit services. This is because the remaining firms may be restricted from taking the audit role due to conflicts of interest. As a result, the selection process may not be fully competitive, leading to a "sub-optimal level of competition." Regulatory frameworks, such as the EU Audit Reform and the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, encourage audit firm rotation to enhance independence and objectivity. However, conflicts from existing advisory relationships can limit viable audit candidates.
