Network Appliance NetApp Hardware Support Engineer Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q49-Q54):

NEW QUESTION # 49

In maintenance mode, which of the following commands shows disk ownership?

- A. aggr status
- B. sysconfig -v
- C. storage show disk -p
- D. disk show -v

Answer: D

Explanation:

In maintenance mode, the command disk show -v provides detailed information about disk ownership. This includes the current owner, previous owner, and disk health status.

How to Use:

Enter maintenance mode, and run:

disk show -v
```

The output will display ownership information for each disk, including its RAID group and current assignment.

NEW QUESTION # 50

A SAS connection is reporting a single PHY down. What are the two most likely causes? (Choose two.)

- A. an offline shelf in the stack
- B. defective cable
- C. improperly seated cable
- D. outdated I/O module (IOM) firmware

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Understanding a Single PHY Down Issue:

In SAS environments, a PHY represents a physical layer connection between devices.

When a single PHY reports a "down" status, it typically indicates an issue with the physical connectivity or the associated hardware.

Cause 1: Improperly Seated Cable

If the SAS cable is not properly seated in the port, the connection for one or more PHYs may fail.

Reseating the cable on both ends (controller and shelf) often resolves the issue.

Cause 2: Defective Cable

A damaged or faulty SAS cable can cause PHY errors.

Replacing the cable and verifying the connection resolves the issue in this case.

NEW QUESTION # 51

How do you set environment variables to factory settings?

- A. wipeconfig
- B. unsetenv all
- C. setenv factory
- D. set-defaults

Answer: D

Explanation:

To reset environment variables to factory settings, the set-defaults command is used. This command clears all customizations and restores the environment variables to their default values.

Key Details:

Command Syntax:

At the LOADER prompt, type:

arduino
```

```
Copy code

set-defaults
```

Effect:

This command resets all environment variables (e.g., boot arguments, diagnostic settings) to their original factory defaults.

NEW QUESTION # 52

Following an unexpected takeover, the taken-over node is waiting for giveback. The administrator plans to perform a giveback with the option -cfo-only true. What happens if this option is used?

- A. Only the data aggregates are sent back.
- B. Only the root aggregate is given back.
- C. Only SVM root volumes are sent back
- D. Only a simulation of the giveback is performed.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Purpose of the -cfo-only true Option:

This option is used during the giveback process in a NetApp cluster to control which aggregates are returned to the original node. By specifying -cfo-only true, only the data aggregates are given back to the original node, while the root aggregate remains with the takeover node.

Use Case:

This command is helpful when you want to test the aggregate giveback functionality or if the root aggregate requires further investigation or maintenance before returning it to the original node.

NEW QUESTION # 53

An aggregate has experienced a multiple disk failure due to a failing I/O module (IOM). The module has been replaced and the aggregate is still failed. What step can be taken to recover the aggregate?

- A. Use diskcopy from maintenance mode.
- B. Unfail the drives in the order that they failed from the clustershell
- C. Run waffiron from the boot_menu.
- D. Unfail the drives from maintenance mode.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When an aggregate fails due to multiple disk failures caused by a faulty I/O module (IOM), the first step after replacing the faulty IOM is to manually unfail the affected drives. This process is done in maintenance mode.

Steps to Recover the Aggregate:

Enter Maintenance Mode:

Reboot the node and interrupt the boot process to access maintenance mode.

Identify Failed Drives:

Use the command:

sql
```

Copy code

storage show disk -broken
```

This command lists all failed (broken) drives.

Unfail the Drives:

Use the following command for each failed drive:

php
```

Copy code

disk unfail <disk-name>
```

Reconstruct the Aggregate:

Once all drives are unfail, the system should begin reconstructing the RAID groups in the aggregate.
