ISTQB Certified Tester Usability Tester Sample Questions (Q25-Q30):

NEW QUESTION # 25

A "usability requirement" is:

- A. A requirement how to conduct a usability test
- B. A requirement needed for a usability tester
- C. A requirement needed to define the size of a mobile phone used in a usability test
- D. A requirement on the usability of a component or system

Answer: D

Explanation:

A usability requirement specifies how usable a product or component must be, often in terms of effectiveness, efficiency, and user satisfaction, as defined in ISO 9241-11. These requirements ensure that the product meets specific human-centered design goals, such as allowing users to complete tasks accurately and quickly.

Options A and C describe procedural or test setup elements, not actual usability requirements. Option B refers to personnel qualifications, which are not the same as usability requirements related to system behavior or performance.

NEW QUESTION # 26

You're redesigning the web shop of a customer and found out that they are using legacy web design techniques like HTML tables for design matters, making the website hard to be operated using alternative input and output devices (e.g. screen readers).

Which kind of risk is most likely to occur?

- A. There's no risk predictable
- B. Usability risk
- C. User experience risk
- D. Accessibility risk

Answer: D

Explanation:

The use of HTML tables for layout instead of proper semantic HTML and responsive design violates accessibility guidelines, particularly those defined in the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG).

Such a design makes it difficult or impossible for users relying on screen readers, keyboard navigation, or other assistive technologies to interact effectively with the site. Therefore, this creates a significant accessibility risk, which is distinct from general usability or user experience risks. Accessibility ensures inclusion of users with physical or cognitive impairments, making option B the correct choice.

NEW QUESTION # 27

As an expert for usability, you're in charge of the usability part of the development of a business application for a large customer. You have worked as a usability expert with the development team for two years and are operating well together; the developers value your feedback and give their bests implementing your suggestions. The product is in an early stage, so there's only a rudimentary prototype available.

Given this information, what is the best approach to verify the usability at the current stage?

- A. Unmoderated usability test
- B. Usability review
- C. Usability maturity assessment
- D. Usability test in the lab

Answer: B

Explanation:

At an early development stage where only a rudimentary prototype exists, a usability review (e.g., expert or heuristic review) is the most effective method. It allows usability specialists to identify potential usability issues without the need for a fully functioning product. Reviews can provide immediate, actionable feedback to guide design improvements before moving into more resource-intensive usability testing. An unmoderated usability test (B) or lab test (D) may be impractical at this stage due to limited interactivity. A usability maturity assessment (C) evaluates organizational processes and is not applicable to evaluating a specific prototype.

NEW QUESTION # 28

Which of the following elements are addressed by the WCAG?

- i. Resizability of text
- ii. Visually appealing design
- iii. Text alternatives
- iv. Keyboard accessibility
- v. Mouse input

- A. iv & v are true, i, ii & iii are false
- B. i, ii, & iii are true, iv & v are false
- C. i, iii, iv & v are true, ii is false
- D. i & iii are true, ii, iv & v are false

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) provide standards to ensure websites are accessible to people with disabilities. They specifically address:

- i. Text resizing (SC 1.4.4),
- iii. Text alternatives for non-text content (SC 1.1.1),
- iv. Keyboard accessibility (SC 2.1.1),
- v. Device independence, which includes not relying solely on mouse input.

Visually appealing design (ii) is not an accessibility requirement and is thus not a WCAG focus. The correct answer is D: i, iii, iv & v are true; ii is false.

NEW QUESTION # 29

You're defining usability test tasks for a web shop for mobile phones and smartphones. Finding out whether users are able to place an order easily has been identified as the main goal of the usability test.

Which of the following is a reasonable task definition to include in the test?

- A. Which mobile operating system do you prefer?
- B. Enter the item number "1469483" in the search box and click "OK". Put the first item in the cart by clicking "add to bag". Then, click on "checkout" in order to start the order process. After that, fill in the form and click on "submit".
- C. Your phone broke and you're looking for a new smartphone. Your budget is 200$ and it should have an infrared sensor as you like to operate your home entertainment system with it. Find a suited smartphone and order it!
- D. Put the first phone you find in your shopping cart!

Answer: C

Explanation:

Option B represents a realistic, goal-oriented scenario that reflects how an actual user would interact with the website. It incorporates context, user intent, constraints, and desired outcome—all characteristics of well-designed usability tasks. Option A is vague and lacks real-world motivation. Option C is too prescriptive and limits insight into user behavior, while D is a survey question, not a usability task. According to Nielsen Norman Group and ISO 25062, the best usability tasks are scenario-based, realistic, and outcome-driven—making B the correct answer.
