- A. Connector
- B. Variables
- C. Resource
- D. Element
- E. Constants

Answer: A,C,D

NEW QUESTION # 167

What are the three considerations in building custom screen components in flow?

- A. Screen components can be installed from AppExchange or custom built
- B. Enable "Use Lightning Components" checkbox in the flow property, prior to integrating the components
- C. Users can run the flow only in Lightning runtime
- D. The flow's type should be Screen Flow
- E. Flow can be distributed using a Visualforce component

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

When building and using custom screen components in Salesforce Flow, there are several key considerations:

- A). Correct - Custom Lightning components used in Flow run only in Lightning Runtime (not Classic).
- B). Correct - Custom components can be created by developers or installed from AppExchange.
- D). Correct - Screen components are only supported in Screen Flows, not Auto-Launched Flows.

Incorrect Options:

- C). The "Use Lightning Components" checkbox was deprecated; it is no longer required in newer versions of Flow.
- E). Visualforce is a legacy technology and not used to distribute Lightning-based Screen Flows.

Reference Extracts from Salesforce Process Automation Study Guide:

"Custom screen components are supported only in Screen Flows and run in Lightning Runtime."

"You can install screen components from AppExchange or build your own using Lightning Web Components."

NEW QUESTION # 168

What should an Administrator do to allow the value of a variable to be retrieved by the source that started the flow?

- A. Select "Available for input" checkbox
- B. Select "Available for output" checkbox
- C. Select "Field is required" checkbox
- D. Select "Allow Multiple Values" checkbox

Answer: B

Explanation:

To expose the value of a flow variable back to the component, process, or Apex that invoked the flow, the variable must be marked as Available for output.

- C). Available for output: # This allows the variable's value to be accessed after the flow finishes executing.

Incorrect Options:

- A). "Field is required" makes the variable mandatory but has no effect on input/output.
- B). "Allow Multiple Values" enables collection variables, not output access.
- D). "Available for input" allows the flow to receive a value into the variable, not output it.

Reference Extracts from Salesforce Help Documentation on Flow Variables:

"Mark a variable as Available for output to allow flows, Apex, and other callers to retrieve its value."

"Use 'Available for input' to pass data into the flow; use 'Available for output' to return data."

NEW QUESTION # 169

Which three of the following are the key component to build a process in Process Builder?

- A. Action
- B. Scheduler
- C. Timer
- D. Trigger
- E. Criteria Node

Answer: A,D,E

Explanation:

The key components to build a process in Process Builder are Action, Criteria Node, and Trigger. Actions define the operations to be performed when the criteria are met, such as updating a record or sending an email. Criteria Nodes specify the conditions that must be satisfied for the actions to execute. The Trigger is the event that initiates the process, such as a record creation or update. These components work together to enable administrators to automate business processes based on specific events and conditions within Salesforce.
