NEW QUESTION # 103

Loopback is a common operation in routine maintenance and troubleshooting. Which of the following statements about loopback operations are true?

- A. After an inloop is performed, signals are transmitted out of the local WDM NE.
- B. A hardware loopback is manually performed on optical and electrical ports using pigtailed and self-loop cables respectively.
- C. After an inloop is performed, signals are transmitted out of the local WDM NE.
- D. After an outloop is performed, signals flow into the local WDM NE.

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

In an outloop (external loopback), the transmitted signal is sent out of the NE and then looped back into its receive port, so signals flow into the local WDM NE.
