BCI Certificate of the Business Continuity Institute (CBCI) Sample Questions (Q53-Q58):

NEW QUESTION # 53

A strategic plan:

- A. Should identify viable options to coordinate efforts of the operational teams
- B. May be supported by a separate crisis communications plan
- C. May contain procedures for coordinating the transportation of personnel to alternate facilities
- D. Should contain procedures for responding to emergencies, including threats to life, or the environment

Answer: B

Explanation:

Strategic plans set the overarching framework and objectives for Business Continuity and are often supported by separate tactical or crisis communication plans tailored to communication needs during disruptions. The CBCI 7.0 course clarifies that while strategic plans guide overall responses, detailed emergency procedures and logistics coordination typically reside in operational or tactical plans, ensuring clarity and focus at different planning levels.

NEW QUESTION # 54

Which of the following is the first step in the process for developing recovery strategies and solutions?

- A. Training personnel to carry out strategy determination activities
- B. Carrying out a gap analysis to determine needs
- C. Developing a Business Continuity policy
- D. Consulting relevant stakeholders on draft designs and proposals

Answer: B

Explanation:

The CBCI 7.0 course clarifies that conducting a gap analysis is the initial step in developing recovery strategies and solutions. The gap analysis compares current Business Continuity capabilities with the requirements identified in the BIA and risk assessments, highlighting deficiencies that must be addressed.

This systematic evaluation informs strategy development by identifying where improvements or new solutions are necessary. While policy development and stakeholder consultation are important subsequent steps, gap analysis provides the evidence base required for informed decision-making. Training personnel comes later as part of implementation.

NEW QUESTION # 55

In order to implement appropriate initiatives for influencing personnel to embrace Business Continuity and a Business Continuity culture, the Business Continuity professional should start by:

- A. Implementing a communications strategy to share information about the gaps in the organization's current Business Continuity plans
- B. Conducting a Business Impact Analysis (BIA) that can be shared with all personnel
- C. Estimating the gap between the extent to which Business Continuity is currently embraced in the organization and the desired level at which Business Continuity should be embraced
- D. Carrying out a gap analysis to identify whether the Business Continuity resumption capabilities meet the Business Continuity needs

Answer: C

Explanation:

The CBCI 7.0 course stresses that the initial step in fostering a Business Continuity culture is estimating the gap between the current level of personnel engagement and the desired state of embracement. This assessment identifies areas where awareness, commitment, or understanding are lacking, providing a baseline to tailor targeted initiatives. This gap analysis enables prioritization of interventions, whether training, communication, or leadership engagement, to bridge the cultural divide effectively. While BIAs and communication strategies support broader continuity efforts, assessing cultural gaps is a necessary precursor to driving meaningful behavioural change.

NEW QUESTION # 56

Business as usual (BAU) plans document processes for restoring an organization to its original state and should:

- A. Take into consideration possibility of new vulnerabilities resulting from impacted resources
- B. Be based on the availability of primary resources prior to the incident
- C. Focus on resuming activities in reverse order of Recovery Time Objectives (RTOs)
- D. Be developed in detail prior to any incident occurring

Answer: A

Explanation:

Business as usual (BAU) plans are designed to restore normal operational conditions after a disruption, often returning systems and processes to pre-incident states. The CBCI 7.0 course underlines that these plans must consider new vulnerabilities that may arise as a result of the disruption's impact on resources or operational environments. Incidents can introduce changes such as weakened controls, damaged infrastructure, or altered workflows, which must be addressed to prevent recurrence or new risks. While BAU plans should be prepared in advance, the focus is not just on resource availability or reversing recovery sequences but on understanding the dynamic context post-disruption. This approach ensures resilience not only in restoration but in strengthening the organization against future incidents.

NEW QUESTION # 57

Which of the following is correct in relation to simulation exercises?

- A. There are no time constraints as the exercise is not running in real time so participants can take time to discuss issues that arise and alternative ways to address them
- B. Simulation exercises are designed to mimic real incident responses in as close to a real-time environment as possible but usually involve only the key personnel whose roles are critical in managing the disruption. The CBCI 7.0 materials specify that simulation exercises test the decision-making, coordination, and response of these essential participants rather than the entire workforce, ensuring focused and practical validation of plans and capabilities. They differ from discussion-based exercises, which involve broader participation and are scenario discussions without time constraints. Simulation exercises maintain real-time pressures and operational realism, although full scenario details are typically not disclosed upfront to simulate uncertainty.
- C. Participants are provided with the full detail of the scenario prior to the exercise commencing, including any information and materials on issues that will arise during the scenario so they can be fully prepared
- D. Simulation exercises involve only key participants rather than all personnel that could be involved in a real incident
- E. Simulation exercises are always discussion-based

Answer: B
