NEW QUESTION # 139

In which process is a workshop conducted to agree the Definition of Ready (DoR) and Definition of Done (DoD)?

- A. Directing a project
- B. Initiating a project
- C. Managing product delivery
- D. Controlling a stage

Answer: B

Explanation:

Agile Foundation guidance, aligned with PRINCE2 Agile, explains that the Definition of Ready (DoR) and Definition of Done (DoD) should be agreed as early as possible to establish clear expectations around quality, readiness, and completion. The workshop to agree both DoR and DoD is conducted during the Initiating a Project process, making option A the correct answer.

The Initiating a Project process is where the foundations for successful delivery are set. Its purpose is to ensure that there is a shared understanding of how the project will be delivered, governed, and controlled before significant work begins. Agreeing the DoR and DoD at this stage provides clarity on what "ready to start" and "done" actually mean for the project. This helps align stakeholders, delivery teams, and governance roles on quality expectations and acceptance standards.

Option B, Directing a Project, focuses on senior-level decision-making, authorization, and overall control rather than detailed delivery agreements. Option C, Controlling a Stage, deals with monitoring progress and handling issues during execution, not defining core quality agreements. Option D, Managing Product Delivery, concentrates on coordinating work between the team and project management but assumes that definitions such as DoR and DoD are already established.

Agile Foundation documents emphasize that DoR and DoD support transparency, consistency, and trust. The DoR ensures that work entering a delivery cycle is sufficiently understood and prepared, reducing waste and rework. The DoD ensures that completed work meets agreed quality criteria and is potentially releasable. Establishing these definitions during Initiating a Project supports Agile principles of built-in quality and shared understanding, while also satisfying governance needs. By agreeing them early, teams can work autonomously within clear boundaries, improving flow, predictability, and value delivery throughout the project.

NEW QUESTION # 140

Which of the following is a benefit of 'being and doing agile'?

- A. Focusing on completing tasks
- B. Following processes
- C. Increasing user satisfaction
- D. Using agile techniques

Answer: C

Explanation:

A key benefit of being and doing agile is increasing user satisfaction by delivering value early and continuously, adapting to feedback, and ensuring the product meets real user needs. Agile approaches emphasize collaboration with customers and iterative delivery, which enhances satisfaction compared to traditional, rigid methods.

While following processes (A) and using agile techniques (B) are means to an end, they do not directly guarantee benefits. Focusing solely on tasks (D) risks losing sight of value delivery.

User satisfaction is a central measure of agile success and reflects the effective application of agile principles.
