An organisation has ISO 14001 EMS certification from a third-party certification body. Which one of the following represents an advantage of having accredited certification?

- A. An increase in the number of clients.
- B. An increase in the marketing price of the organisation's products.
- C. Recognition of the credibility of the certification process.
- D. Clarity of the audit report.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Accredited certification under ISO 14001 refers to certification that has been issued by a certification body that is itself accredited by a national accreditation body. This provides formal recognition that the certification body is competent to perform audits and issue certifications in accordance with ISO/IEC 17021 standards.

According to guidance in ISO 14001 Lead Auditor training materials and ISO/IEC 17021, one of the key benefits of accredited certification is:

"Recognition of the credibility, impartiality, and technical competence of the certification process and the certification body issuing the certificate." This recognition:

Increases stakeholder confidence (e.g., regulators, clients, the public), Supports market access and tender qualifications, Confirms that audits are performed in accordance with international best practices.

Option D correctly reflects the most strategic and system-level benefit of accredited certification.

The other options (A, B, and C) may result indirectly or are not directly linked to the purpose of accreditation.

Whistleklean is a national dry cleaning and laundry organisation with 50 shops. You are conducting an EMS surveillance audit of Head Office and are sampling environmental performance measurement. You find that 80 per cent of failures to meet performance criteria originate from five shops in the same region. The cleaning equipment needs replacing but the organisation cannot afford it at the moment. On raising the matter with senior management, you are told that there are plans to replace the equipment in these shops over the next five years.
