CompTIA Project+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q245-Q250):

NEW QUESTION # 245
Which of the following should a project manager consult when deciding how to send updates regarding deliverables?

- A. Meeting minutes
- B. Dashboard
- C. Communication plan
- D. Status report

Answer: C

Explanation:
A communication plan details the communication requirements, including methods, frequency, and stakeholders for each type of update. According to CompTIA Project+, this plan is essential for ensuring effective and organized communication throughout the project.

NEW QUESTION # 246
Which of the following offers administrators more direct control over operating systems?

- A. Platform as a service
- B. Infrastructure as a service
- C. Software as a service
- D. Functions as a service

Answer: B

Explanation:
Infrastructure as a service (IaaS) offers administrators more direct control over operating systems than other cloud service models. IaaS is a type of cloud computing service that provides virtualized computing resources such as servers, storage, network, and operating systems over the internet. IaaS allows users to rent or lease infrastructure resources on demand and pay only for what they use. IaaS gives users more flexibility and control over their infrastructure resources and enables them to configure, manage, and customize their operating systems according to their needs and preferences3

NEW QUESTION # 247
Which of the following activities should a project manager perform during the closing phase? (Select three).

- A. Statement of work sign-off
- B. Stakeholder analysis
- C. Removing access
- D. Lessons learned
- E. Risk analysis
- F. Acquiring resources
- G. Removing resources

Answer: C,D,G

Explanation:

During the closing phase, a project manager should conduct lessons learned sessions, release resources, and remove access. These actions align with CompTIA Project+ standards for project closure, focusing on finalizing project deliverables, releasing resources, and documenting insights.

NEW QUESTION # 248

A global shipping slowdown is causing critical raw materials needed for manufacturing to be delivered late.
As a result, a project's production run will be delayed from the beginning.
Which of the following dependencies is most likely happening?

- A. Finish-to-finish
- B. Start-to-finish
- C. Finish-to-start
- D. Start-to-start

Answer: C

Explanation:
A Finish-to-Start dependency implies that a subsequent activity cannot start until a previous one finishes. In this scenario, the manufacturing process (subsequent activity) cannot begin until the critical raw materials (previous activity) have been delivered. This type of dependency is the most common in project schedules and is likely being affected by the global shipping slowdown, causing delays in the start of the project's production run.

NEW QUESTION # 249

A piece of equipment has malfunctioned and is stalling the completion of a deliverable for a project. Which of the following should the project manager do next?

- A. Rate the severity of the impact the issue has on the project.
- B. Escalate the issue to the project sponsor.
- C. Buy a replacement for the faulty equipment.
- D. Get the maintenance team to resolve the issue.

Answer: A

Explanation:
This answer is based on the best practice of issue management in project management, which is to identify, analyze, prioritize, and resolve issues that affect the project performance, scope, schedule, quality, or budget12. The first step in this process is to rate the severity of the impact the issue has on the project, which involves assessing the likelihood and consequences of the issue, and assigning a rating or score to the issue based on a predefined scale or criteria34. By rating the severity of the impact, the project manager can determine the urgency and importance of the issue, and decide the appropriate course of action to address the issue56.
Rating the severity of the impact is better than the other options because:
Buying a replacement for the faulty equipment may not be feasible, cost-effective, or timely, depending on the availability, price, and delivery time of the equipment. It may also require approval from the project sponsor or other stakeholders, and may affect the project budget or scope7.
Getting the maintenance team to resolve the issue may not be possible, depending on the nature and extent of the malfunction, the skills and availability of the maintenance team, and the warranty or service contract of the equipment. It may also take time and resources to diagnose and fix the problem, and may cause further delays or disruptions to the project8.
Escalating the issue to the project sponsor may not be necessary, depending on the severity and complexity of the issue, and the authority and responsibility of the project manager. It may also create unnecessary alarm or confusion among the project stakeholders, and may undermine the project manager's credibility or autonomy9.
