- B. group of services tested to guarantee devices and links liveliness within the SD-WAN overlay

NEW QUESTION # 71

An engineer is troubleshooting the AP join process using DNS. Which FQDN must be resolvable on the network for the access points to successfully register to the WLC?

- A. cisco-capwap-controller.domain.com
- B. wlcbostrname.domain.com
- C. ap-manager.domain.com
- D. primary-wlc.domain.com

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

DNS: If you have configured your DHCP server to provide both option 006 (DNS server address) and option 015 (domain name) information, the AP can obtain WLC addresses from the DNS server. The process works as follows:

1. The AP gets its IP address from DHCP with options 6 and 15 configured.
2. The AP can obtain the IP address of the DNS server from the DHCP option.
3. The AP uses this information to perform a hostname lookup using CISCO-CAPWAP-CONTROLLER.<localdomain>, which resolves to available WLC management interface IP addresses (IPv4 or IPv6, or both).
4. The AP can then perform a directed message to associate to responsive WLCs.

To prevent all APs from joining a single controller based on a DNS name resolution, the domain name may vary; this is what is done to dispatch APs to different controllers across the enterprise network, based on different domain names that are configured in their respective DNS scopes.

NEW QUESTION # 72

- A. Option D
- B. Option C
- C. Option A
- D. Option B

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

CoPP protects the route processor on network devices by treating route processor resources as a separate entity with its own ingress interface (and in some implementations, egress also). CoPP is used to police traffic that is destined to the route processor of the router such as:

- + routing protocols like OSPF, EIGRP, or BGP.
- + Gateway redundancy protocols like HSRP, VRRP, or GLBP.
- + Network management protocols like telnet, SSH, SNMP, or RADIUS.

Therefore we must apply the CoPP to deal with SSH because it is in the management plane. CoPP must be put under "control-plane" command.
