Palo Alto Networks XSIAM Analyst Sample Questions (Q49-Q54):

NEW QUESTION # 49

A security analyst has been assigned a ticket from the help desk stating that users are experiencing errors when attempting to open files on a specific network share. These errors state that the file format cannot be opened. IT has verified that the file server is online and functioning, but that all files have unusual extensions attached to them.

The security analyst reviews alerts within Cortex XSIAM and identifies malicious activity related to a possible ransomware attack on the file server. This incident is then escalated to the incident response team for further investigation.

Upon reviewing the incident, the responders confirm that ransomware was successfully executed on the file server. Other details of the attack are noted below:

- An unpatched vulnerability on an externally facing web server was exploited for initial access
- The attackers successfully used Mimikatz to dump sensitive credentials that were used for privilege escalation

- PowerShell was used on a Windows server for additional discovery, as well as lateral movement to other systems
- The attackers executed SystemBC RAT on multiple systems to maintain remote access
- Ransomware payload was downloaded on the file server via an external site, "file.io"

Refer to the scenario to answer this question:

Which hunt collection category in Cortex XSIAM should the incident responders use to identify all systems where the attackers established persistence during the attack?

- A. Command History
- B. Process Execution
- C. Network Data
- D. Remote Access

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Remote Access hunt collection surfaces tools and mechanisms (RATs, backdoors, remote services) attackers use to maintain persistence. Querying it will reveal where SystemBC or similar access channels were established across systems.

NEW QUESTION # 50

You observe an indicator marked "Malicious" in your dashboard. What can you do next?

(Choose two)

Response:

- A. Downgrade the alert to benign without justification
- B. Add it to the blocklist
- C. Suppress alerts for 24 hours
- D. Create a prevention rule

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 51

In which two ways can scheduled XQL queries be made to run efficiently? (Choose two.)

- A. Use multiple free text queries, but over very short time periods
- B. Use "=" instead of "contains."
- C. Use the Query Builder template instead of XQL queries
- D. At the end of the query, limit the number of fields to display

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Using exact match comparisons improves query performance by avoiding expensive pattern searches, and limiting the number of returned fields reduces processing overhead and execution time.

NEW QUESTION # 52

You notice a sudden spike in alerts from multiple endpoints. Cortex XSIAM automatically creates an incident. What are the two most likely factors that triggered this?

Response:

- A. Predefined incident scoring threshold
- B. Manual case creation by analyst
- C. Matching a high-priority threat intelligence feed
- D. Aggregated alerts with common indicators

Answer: C,D

NEW QUESTION # 53

An analyst conducting a threat hunt needs to collect multiple files from various endpoints. The analyst begins the file retrieval process by using the Action Center, but upon review of the retrieved files, notices that the list is incomplete and missing files, including kernel files.

What could be the reason for this issue?

- A. The analyst must manually retrieve kernel files by accessing the machine directly.
- B. The retrieval process is limited to 500 MB in total file size.
- C. The endpoint agents were in offline mode during the file retrieval process, causing some files to be skipped.
- D. The file retrieval policy applied to the endpoints may restrict access to certain system or kernel files.

Answer: D

Explanation:

File retrieval in XSIAM/XDR honors the endpoint's retrieval policy. If that policy excludes sensitive areas (like system or kernel files), those items will not be collected, resulting in an incomplete set.
