SAP Certified Associate - Back-End Developer - ABAP Cloud Sample Questions (Q29-Q34):

NEW QUESTION # 29

You want to extract date information of a flight date (f_info) and format it like yyyy-dd-mm using the following code:

SELECT FROM TABLE dbtab1

FIELDS f1,

extract_year(f_info) && '-' && extract_month(f_info) && '-' && extract_day(f_info) ...

For the extract_* functions to work, what can be the data dictionary types of f_info?

Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. TIMS
- B. TIMESTAMP
- C. DATS
- D. UTCLONG
- E. TIMN

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

The EXTRACT_YEAR, EXTRACT_MONTH, and EXTRACT_DAY functions in ABAP SQL are SQL built-in functions used for extracting date components. These functions are only supported for timestamp- capable or date-capable fields.

According to the ABAP CDS Development Guide and SAP HANA SQL capabilities available to ABAP SQL via CDS or native SQL:

* DATS (ABAP Dictionary data type for dates) is fully supported for extract functions.

* TIMESTAMP and UTCLONG are also supported since they represent full date-time values and are mapped internally to TIMESTAMP with time zone considerations.

* TIMS is a time-only type and is not valid for extract date functions.

* TIMN is for time periods and is also not valid for extracting year, month, or day.

Therefore:

* Option B (UTCLONG) - correct

* Option C (TIMESTAMP) - correct

* Option D (DATS) - correct

* Options A (TIMS) and E (TIMN) - incorrect

NEW QUESTION # 32

What RAP object contains only the fields required for a particular app?

- A. Database view
- B. Projection view
- C. Data model view
- D. Metadata extension

Answer: B

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation from Exact Extract:
* In RAP, the Projection View is designed to expose only the fields relevant for a specific app, keeping the UI lean and controlled.
* Metadata extension # adds UI-related metadata, not fields.
* Database view # technical representation, not app-specific.
* Data model view # defines the data structure, not app-specific projection.
* Verified by RAP documentation: Projection views are application-specific representations of the underlying data model.

NEW QUESTION # 33

In RESTful Application Programming, a business object contains which parts? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Behavior definition
- B. Process definition
- C. Authentication rules
- D. CDS view

Answer: A,D

Explanation:
In RESTful Application Programming, a business object contains two main parts: a CDS view and a behavior definition1.
A . CDS view: A CDS view is a data definition that defines the structure and the data source of a business object. A CDS view can consist of one or more entities that are linked by associations or compositions. An entity is a CDS view element that represents a node or a projection of a business object. An entity can have various annotations that define the metadata and the semantics of the business object2.
B . Behavior definition: A behavior definition is a source code artifact that defines the behavior and the validation rules of a business object. A behavior definition can specify the standard CRUD (create, read, update, delete) operations, the draft handling, the authorization checks, and the side effects for a business object. A behavior definition can also define custom actions, validations, and determinations that implement the business logic of a business object3.
The following are not parts of a business object in RESTful Application Programming, because:
C . Authentication rules: Authentication rules are not part of a business object, but part of a service binding. A service binding is a configuration artifact that defines how a business object is exposed as an OData service. A service binding can specify the authentication method, the authorization scope, the protocol version, and the service options for the OData service4.
D . Process definition: Process definition is not part of a business object, but part of a workflow. A workflow is a business process that orchestrates the tasks and the events of a business object. A workflow can be defined using the Workflow Editor in the SAP Business Application Studio or the SAP Web IDE. A workflow can use the business object's APIs to trigger or consume events, execute actions, or read or update data5.
