Nutanix Certified Professional - Cloud Integration - Azure (NCP-CI-Azure v6.7) Sample Questions (Q59-Q64):

NEW QUESTION # 59

An NC2 on Azure environment requires that outside networks are allowed to be routed to a Nutanix User VPC from outside the cluster when using a No-Nat path.

Which configuration will satisfy this requirement?

- A. Internally routable network address which shares the same address space of the Native Azure Subnet
- B. Externally routable IP address which shares the same address space of the Nutanix User VPC
- C. Externally routable IP address which shares the same address space of the Native Azure Subnet
- D. Internally routable network address which shares the same address space of the Nutanix set VPC

Answer: B

Explanation:

No-NAT Path Requirement: For a No-NAT path to function, the external networks must be able to route traffic directly to the Nutanix User VPC without translation.

Externally Routable IP Address: The externally routable IP address ensures that traffic from outside networks can reach the Nutanix User VPC.

Address Space Compatibility: Sharing the same address space as the Nutanix User VPC allows for seamless integration and communication between the external network and the User VPC.

NEW QUESTION # 60

A nutanix user VPC called servers has three subnets called Tier1, tier2 and Darren-Tier3.

*Servers:10.0.0.0/16

* Tier1: 10.0.0.0/16

* Tier2: 10.0.0.0.128/25

* Darren-Tier3:10.0.4.0/24

An administrator wants to keep Darren-Tier3 isolated and not receive any outside traffic.

In order properly route for Tier1 and Tier2 coming from native subnets for Azure, what should the ERP be set to?

- A. Transit VPC ERP set to 10.0.0.0/24 and Servers ERP set to 10.0.0.0/24
- B. Transit VPC ERP set to 10.0.0.0/20 and Servers ERP set to 10.0.0.0/24
- C. Transit VPC ERP set to 10.0.0.0/16 and Servers ERP set to 10.0.0.0/25
- D. Transit VPC ERP set to 10.0.0.0/16 and Servers ERP set to 10.0.4.0/24

Answer: D

Explanation:

* ERP Configuration: ERP (External Route Prefix) settings determine how traffic is routed between subnets and VPCs.

* Objective: The goal is to isolate Darren-Tier3 while ensuring proper routing for Tier1 and Tier2.

* Transit VPC ERP: Setting it to 10.0.0.0/16 ensures that it covers the entire VPC range, allowing traffic within Tier1 and Tier2.

* Servers ERP: Setting it to 10.0.4.0/24 ensures isolation for Darren-Tier3 by limiting traffic to that specific subnet and preventing external traffic from reaching it.

* Conclusion: This configuration achieves the isolation of Darren-Tier3 while allowing proper routing for Tier1 and Tier2.

NEW QUESTION # 61

Exhibit.

An administrator is trying to create an NC2 cluster in Azure, but does not see the required region in the drop-down list. Which two steps could the administrator take to resolve this issue? (Choose two.)

- A. Check the list of regions specified under the NC2 organization cloud account.
- B. Check the Azure subscription is created in the correct region.
- C. Ensure that the Azure region is whitelisted for use by Microsoft in the subscription.
- D. Check the NC2 Billingconsole to ensure the region is listed.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

* Check the list of regions specified under the NC2 organization cloud account: The list of available regions in the NC2 console might be restricted based on the configuration of the cloud account associated with the NC2 organization. Verifying this list ensures that the desired region is included and available for cluster creation.

* Ensure that the Azure region is whitelisted for use by Microsoft in the subscription: Sometimes, specific regions need to be explicitly enabled or whitelisted in the Azure subscription for certain services. This step ensures that the required region is permitted for use within the Azure subscription, allowing the NC2 cluster to be created in that region.

NEW QUESTION # 62

An administrator is planning on building the network prior to deploying a Nutanix cluster into Azure.

Which two components require their own vNets for NC2 in Azure? (Choose two.)

- A. Bare-metal instance
- B. Azure Load Balancer
- C. Prism Central
- D. Virtual Network Gateway

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

NC2 on Azure Deployment: Deploying Nutanix clusters in Azure involves configuring various components, each needing appropriate network isolation and configuration.

Components and vNets:

Bare-metal instance: Requires its own vNet to ensure proper network isolation and performance.

Prism Central: Needs a dedicated vNet to manage and monitor the Nutanix environment, ensuring it has the required network access and isolation.

Azure Load Balancer: Does not require its own vNet but needs to be associated with the appropriate vNet where services are deployed.

Virtual Network Gateway: Is used for VPN connections but does not necessitate a separate vNet; it operates within an existing vNet.

Network Isolation: Providing separate vNets for Bare-metal instances and Prism Central ensures optimal performance and management capabilities.

Conclusion: Both Bare-metal instances and Prism Central require their own vNets in the NC2 on Azure deployment.

NEW QUESTION # 63

A company needs to establish connectivity between the on-premises datacenter and Azure. The company does not have the infrastructure for a dedicated connection.

Which method will best satisfy this requirement?

- A. ExpressRoute
- B. VNet Peering
- C. Azure Virtual WAN
- D. VPN

Answer: D

Explanation:

* VPN for Connectivity: A VPN (Virtual Private Network) allows secure connectivity between the on-premises datacenter and Azure over the public internet without requiring dedicated infrastructure.

* Ease of Setup: VPNs are typically easier and quicker to set up compared to dedicated connections like ExpressRoute, making them suitable for organizations without existing dedicated connection infrastructure.
