

Marvelous New ECBA Test Prep—Pass ECBA First Attempt

How I passed ECBA in my first attempt. (PD hours and Preps)

Hi there, Right after graduating (B. Computer Applications) I thought of doing ECBA. I didn't find any detailed review or guidance on how to clear the exam. Leaving this here, So it might be useful for some.

Though I didn't have any prior work experience I cleared ECBA in my first attempt.

My PD log:

1. Business Analysis Fundamentals - by The BA Guide \(Udemy\) : 9 Hours
2. Reading/reviewing the BABOK v3 Guide or Self-directed Learning : 12 Hours

(BABOK v3 is available on IIBA website or just google it.)

That's all is required for your 21 PD Hours. You can also just read the BABOK and log it in your PD hours and you will be still eligible to write the exam.

My Preps :

I did "Business Analysis Fundamentals" course by The BA Guide on Udemy which gave a slight idea on what Business Analysis is. After completing it, I read the BABOK for 14 days straight, going through only the topics which was mentioned on the IIBA website. If understanding contents of BABOK was difficult for you, just go through the BABOK overview posts on r/businessanalysis wiki-section. I even went through some videos on Youtube, though not much helpful but you can watch it for revision purpose. (Search these terms on Youtube : "ECBA Study group", "ECBA prep", "BABOK", "BABOK Summary")

I never paid for any practice exam questions. I went through Self-Assessment Tool which was available on IIBA website (Only for Members) and a set of questions from this website.

To access the Self-Assessment Tool you have to become an IIBA Member, which is worth paying for. Go for it.

Exam day : A private PSI exam browser installation link will be shared to your registered email just 30 minutes before the exam starts. You just have to open it and a proctor will guide you through the exam. If you are unable to open the PSI exam browser, contact the Live chat support asp. They will clear it for you. I had some error in installing the browser, When I contacted the technical support they took control of my pc and installed it. After the exam the results will be published there itself and confirmation email would be received with 2 hours or 2 business days (I got confirmation mail within 2 hours).

Feel free to ask anything. All the best.

IIBA Entry Certificate in Business Analysis (ECBA) Sample Questions (Q41-Q46):

NEW QUESTION # 41

Which criteria are used to ensure high-quality relationships between requirements?

- A. Concise and creative
- B. Consistent and correct
- C. Collaborative and communicated
- D. Correlated and clear

Answer: B

Explanation:

To ensure high-quality relationships between requirements, the criteria are that they should be consistent (logically aligned without contradictions) and correct (accurately represent the intended relationships and dependencies).

Exact Extract from BABOK Guide v3 - Section 5.1: Trace Requirements:

"Relationships between requirements should be clearly defined, consistent, and correct to support impact analysis and traceability."

NEW QUESTION # 42

What is the highest level of a data flow diagram called?

- A. Prime level
- B. Rollup diagram
- C. Context diagram
- D. Swim lane

Answer: C

Explanation:

The context diagram represents the highest level of a data flow diagram (DFD). It illustrates the entire system as a single process and shows the interactions between the system and external entities (actors, users, or systems). This overview is essential in understanding system boundaries and external data flows.

BABOK Reference - Technique: Data Flow Diagrams (Section 10.13):

"The context diagram is the highest level in a data flow diagram, showing the overall system boundaries, external entities, and major information flows."

NEW QUESTION # 43

The process of assigning requirements to solution components and releases to best achieve the objectives is called:

- A. requirements allocation.
- B. requirements architecture.
- C. requirements classification schema.
- D. requirements traceability.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Requirements allocation is the process of assigning requirements to solution components and releases to ensure that the objectives are met effectively. It involves determining which requirements will be addressed in which components of the solution and in which release they will be delivered. This process helps in managing the scope of the project, ensuring that all requirements are accounted for and appropriately assigned for implementation.

The information aligns with the practices described in the Business Analysis Body of Knowledge (BABOK) Guide, which is the standard for the practice of business analysis and guides professionals within the six core knowledge areas, describing the skills, deliverables, and techniques that business analysis professionals require to achieve better business outcomes 1 .

NEW QUESTION # 44

(An organization is seeking to make design changes to their website and has asked you to help with the implementation. The company incrementally releases updates on a monthly schedule to ensure that the site remains relevant. What should be your FIRST step in planning a business analysis approach to this initiative?)

- A. Review the latest retrospective from the previous release to select an approach.
- B. Survey the development team to help you choose an approach.
- C. Implement an approach that worked for you at a previous company.
- D. Use a predictive approach because this is a high-risk, customer-facing initiative.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is C . BABOK says the purpose of Plan Business Analysis Approach is to define an appropriate method for conducting business analysis activities, and the Agile Extension explains that retrospectives are used for continuous improvement by reflecting on what went well, what could be improved, and how to improve the process. Because this initiative uses incremental monthly releases , the most appropriate first step is to review the latest retrospective from the previous release and use those learnings to select the approach for the next cycle. This is the strongest ECBA-aligned answer among the options.

Option A is incorrect because BABOK emphasizes selecting an approach that is appropriate to the current context , not simply reusing what worked at a different company. An approach must fit the initiative, stakeholders, and delivery environment.

Option B is weaker than C because team input can help, but the question asks for the first step , and the prior release retrospective provides concrete evidence from the same product and release model. In a monthly incremental environment, recent retrospective findings are more directly relevant than a general survey. This is an inference based on BABOK's planning task and the Agile Extension's use of retrospectives for continuous improvement.

Option D is incorrect because the scenario does not justify defaulting to a predictive approach. BABOK recognizes that the business analysis approach should be chosen based on context, and monthly incremental releases are typically more consistent with iterative or adaptive thinking than automatically choosing predictive just because the site is customer-facing.

NEW QUESTION # 45

Inputs to prepare for elicitation include:

- A. requirements and designs.
- B. needs and stakeholder engagement approach.
- C. information management approach and solution scope.
- D. future state description and risk analysis results.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Stakeholder engagement approach
