Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q33-Q38):

NEW QUESTION # 33

An integration cartridge implements communication between the B2C Commerce Storefront and a third-party service provider. The cartridge contains the localServiceRegistry code:

```

var LocalServiceRegistry = require('dw/svc/LocalServiceRegistry');
module.exports = LocalServiceRegistry.createService('serviceprovider.rest.auth',
  {
    createRequest: function(svc, httpClient) {
      var svcCredential = svc.getConfiguration().credential;
      if (empty(svcCredential.user) || empty(svcCredential.password)) {
        throw new Error('Basic Auth requires valid client ID (user) and secret (password)');
      }
      var requestBody = {
        clientId: svcCredential.user,
        clientSecret: svcCredential.password
      svc.setAuthentication('NONE');
      svc.addHeader('Accept', 'application/json');

      return JSON.stringify(requestBody);
    parseResponse: function(svc, httpClient) {
      return httpClient.text;
    }
  }
);

```

How does this code sample accomplish authentication to the service provider?

- A. By disabling Basic Auth and executing the service authentication call.
- B. By performing a signed SOAP Auth request using a certificate.
- C. By wrapping the authentication service call with Basic Auth.
- D. By Issuing a Basic Auth request to the service provider.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The code sample shows the creation of a service request to a third-party service provider, where the authentication method is explicitly set to 'NONE' using the line `svc.setAuthentication("NONE");`. This configuration implies that the request does not use Basic Authentication or any embedded credentials like client ID and secret in the HTTP headers for authentication purposes. Instead, it builds the authentication details into the request body, which suggests that the service expects credentials as part of the payload rather than as part of the standard authentication headers, thus effectively disabling Basic Auth for this transaction.
