GAQM CNA-001 Exam, also known as the Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) Exam, is a certification test designed specifically for those who wish to start their career in the nursing field. CNA-001 exam assesses the candidate's knowledge, skills, and abilities required to perform the duties of a nursing assistant effectively. It tests the candidate's proficiency in patient care, communication, medical ethics, safety procedures, and various other important nursing practices.

GAQM CNA-001 Certification is recognized globally and is highly valued by healthcare employers. It demonstrates that a nursing assistant has the necessary knowledge and skills to provide safe and effective care to patients. Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) certification is valid for three years, after which the nursing assistant must renew their certification by taking a recertification exam or completing continuing education requirements.
