ASET Ethics Examination-ASET Professional Practice Exam (PPE) Sample Questions (Q92-Q97):

NEW QUESTION # 92

Which of the following types of members would be exempt from ASET's Continuing Professional Development Program?

- A. Self-employed members
- B. Association Council members
- C. Retired members
- D. New members

Answer: C

Explanation:

The ASET Continuing Professional Development (CPD) program exists to ensure that practicing technologists continuously update their technical skills to protect public safety and welfare.

Consequently, anyone actively providing engineering or applied science technology services-whether they are newly minted members (Option A), self-employed consultants (Option C), or even members sitting on the ASET Council (Option D)-must complete their mandatory CPD hours to remain competent in the current technological landscape. The only permanent exception to this rule is for Retired members. When a professional officially transitions to a "Retired" membership status with ASET, they legally declare that they have ceased all professional practice and are no longer offering technical services to the public or employers. Because they are no longer practicing, their potentially outdated skills do not pose a risk to public safety. Therefore, ASET formally exempts them from the ongoing CPD requirement while allowing them to maintain their honorary connection to the profession.

NEW QUESTION # 93

What is the purpose of Canada's Copyright Act?

- A. To allow the owner of a work the exclusive right to copy
- B. To allow unauthorized copying
- C. To allow an individual to duplicate someone's work and pass it off as their own
- D. To allow an individual to claim credit for work that is not their own

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Canada, Intellectual Property (IP) is protected under various federal statutes. The specific purpose of the Canadian Copyright Act is to protect the original expression of ideas. It legally grants the creator or owner of an original literary, artistic, musical, or dramatic work (which includes engineering drawings, software code, and technical manuals) the sole and exclusive right to produce, reproduce, perform, or publish that work. This legal monopoly prevents others from stealing, unauthorized copying, or financially exploiting the creator's intellectual labor without permission or compensation.

Options A, C, and D describe acts of plagiarism, piracy, and copyright infringement-which are the exact illegal activities the Copyright Act was created to prevent and penalize. For ASET professionals, understanding copyright is crucial both for protecting their own firm's proprietary designs and for ensuring they do not illegally utilize the protected materials of other engineering firms.

NEW QUESTION # 94

Which of the following is the role of the ASET Council as set out in the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act?

- A. To investigate complaints against regulated members of ASET
- B. To review applications for certification as a C.Tech. or C.E.T.
- C. To manage and conduct the business and affairs of ASET
- D. To review applications for registration as a P.Tech.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Under the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act (EGPA), the corporate governance of professional regulatory organizations is carefully structured. The ASET Council acts essentially as the board of directors for the association. Its statutory role is to govern, manage, and conduct the overall business and affairs of ASET. This includes setting strategic direction, establishing regulatory policies, managing finances, creating bylaws, and ensuring the association fulfills its primary legal mandate of protecting the public. The Council does not engage in the granular, day-to-day administrative tasks or specific casework. For example, the review of individual applications for C.Tech., C.E.T., or P.Tech. is delegated to the Board of Examiners (or Joint Board of Examiners). Similarly, investigating complaints is strictly the domain of the Investigative Committee. By maintaining a high-level governance role, the Council ensures the organization operates effectively and legally while maintaining necessary separation from the independent disciplinary and registration boards.

NEW QUESTION # 95

According to the Occupational Health and Safety Act, who is authorized to require the production of, or examine and make copies of, medical reports or records?

- A. A and B above
- B. A Director of Medical Services
- C. An officer designated under the Act
- D. A person authorized in writing by the Director of Medical Services

Answer: A

Explanation:

Under provincial Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) legislation, medical records are treated with the highest degree of confidentiality due to strict privacy laws. During an OHS investigation-even one involving a severe workplace accident or occupational disease-standard OHS enforcement officers (Option C) do not possess the blanket authority to demand, examine, or copy a worker's private medical records. Because interpreting medical data requires specialized clinical knowledge and handling it requires medical privacy protocols, the OHS Act specifically restricts this power. Only the Director of Medical Services (a specialized medical physician appointed by the government under the Act) possesses the statutory authority to mandate the production of such sensitive records.

Furthermore, the Director may delegate this authority, but only to a specific person authorized explicitly in writing by the Director (usually another medical professional). Therefore, both A and B have this highly restricted legal authority.

NEW QUESTION # 96

A regulated member of ASET becomes aware of serious deficiencies in a water treatment plant that may have resulted in harmful chemicals contaminating the local water supply. The member provides a report to the supervisor responsible for the treatment plant recommending immediate action to ensure the safety of the drinking water. The supervisor indicates that immediate action will be taken, but after several weeks and regular reminders from the member, nothing has been done to correct the deficiencies. Which of the following actions is the next step the member should take in this situation?

- A. Anonymously leak information about the potential health crisis to the public.
- B. Wait another week to see if the supervisor corrects the deficiencies.
- C. Take the issue to upper management to attempt immediate resolution.
- D. Report the company to the regulatory authorities.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The contamination of a public water supply represents a severe, immediate threat to the paramount duty of an ASET member: the protection of public health and safety. Because the immediate supervisor has proven negligent and failed to act despite repeated warnings, the member can no longer rely on them. Waiting another week (Option A) is unethical as it allows public poisoning to continue. However, professional escalation requires utilizing internal mechanisms before external "whistleblowing." Leaking anonymously to the public (Option C) is unprofessional and can cause panic without ensuring a technical fix. Reporting the company directly to external authorities (Option D) is the ultimate backstop, but it bypasses the corporate entity's right to correct rogue management. The ethically correct next step is to immediately escalate the issue internally to upper management or the corporate directors. This alerts the highest level of authority in the organization, giving them the chance to override the negligent supervisor, fix the water plant, and legally report the incident themselves.

Here is the ninth batch of 10 questions (Questions 91 to 100), carefully reviewed, corrected, and formatted with comprehensive explanations based on the ASET Code of Ethics, the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act (EGPA), and Canadian professional practice and legal standards.
