ASIS-PSP (Physical Security Professional) certification exam is a highly respected and widely recognized certification for professionals working in the field of physical security. ASIS-PSP Exam is designed to test the knowledge and skills of individuals who are responsible for the design, implementation, and management of physical security programs within organizations of all sizes and industries.

ASIS-PSP certification exam is highly respected in the security industry and is considered one of the most prestigious credentials for physical security professionals. Individuals who pass the exam are recognized as experts in the field and are highly sought after by employers. Physical Security Professional Exam certification provides professionals with the opportunity to enhance their career prospects and increase their earning potential. Additionally, the certification is a testament to the individual's commitment to professional development and their dedication to maintaining the highest standards of physical security.

The benefit of obtaining the Physical Security Professional Certification

The security world is full of professional certifications, ranging from the plethora of initials offered by ASIS, to homeland security designations, to a fraud examiner's certification, to others related to crisis management, threat management, and even critical incident stress. Do the examination costs, recertification fees and costs, and study time make sense for security professionals to grow in their careers?

For the uninitiated, they mean nothing, other than a long string of initials behind the person's name. To other security professionals, these designations can represent a coded shorthand language that proves the long hours of study and expertise, built around years of experience, in a chosen technical or operational portion of a security career. To external clients looking to hire security consultants for site assessments, private investigations, physical security improvements, or threat assessments and management, these designations may be a required and built-in part of any Request for Proposals (RFPs) they put out.

Insurance investigators and other private investigators who work on forensic accounting or financial cases can get the Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE) designation from the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners. This certification also requires education and professional requirements in accounting and auditing; criminology and sociology; fraud investigations; loss prevention; or the law, along with the completion of a challenging examination.

Some critics of this collection of designations argue that these "alphabet soup" listings are merely résumé builders that provide lucrative application, testing, and recertification fees for the association, not its members, without much real benefit. But this perspective ignores the fact that these certifications are recognized as bona fide in expert-witness court cases around the United States and the world, and they add prestige and value to the holder's professional expertise, education, and status in the security world.

NEW QUESTION # 43

A device that is designed to respond to a certain change in conditions, such as the opening of a door, movement within a room or rapid rise in heat is known as:

- A. Alarm sensor
- B. Sounding device
- C. Sending device
- D. Enunciator

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 44

_____ is a controllable variable and how much control is necessary depends on the degree of honesty of each individual.

- A. Potential
- B. Honesty
- C. Capability
- D. Aptitude

Answer: C

Explanation:

Capability refers to the potential of a person to commit dishonest acts, and it is considered a controllable variable in security management. The degree of control needed over a person's capability depends on their level of honesty. In environments with higher risks of internal threats, security systems, supervision, and checks may be increased to mitigate the risks associated with those who have both opportunity and capability.
