Microsoft Implementing Analytics Solutions Using Microsoft Fabric Sample Questions (Q12-Q17):

NEW QUESTION # 12

You have a Fabric tenant that contains lakehouse named Lakehousel. Lakehousel contains a Delta table with eight columns. You receive new data that contains the same eight columns and two additional columns.

You create a Spark DataFrame and assign the DataFrame to a variable named df. The DataFrame contains the new data. You need to add the new data to the Delta table to meet the following requirements:

- * Keep all the existing rows.
- * Ensure that all the new data is added to the table.

How should you complete the code? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

Answer:

Explanation:

NEW QUESTION # 13

You have a Fabric lakehouse named Lakehouse1 that contains the following data.

You need to build a T-SQL statement that will return the total sales amount by OrderDate only for the days that are holidays in Australia. The total sales amount must sum the quantity multiplied by the price on each row in the dbo.sales table.

How should you complete the statement? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

NEW QUESTION # 14

You have a Fabric tenant that contains a lakehouse named LH1.

You need to deploy a new semantic model. The solution must meet the following requirements:

- * Support complex calculated columns that include aggregate functions, calculated tables, and Multidimensional Expressions (MDX) user hierarchies.

- * Minimize page rendering times.

How should you configure the model? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

NEW QUESTION # 15

You have an Azure Repos Git repository named Repo1 and a Fabric-enabled Microsoft Power BI Premium capacity. The capacity contains two workspaces named Workspace1 and Workspace2. Git integration is enabled at the workspace level.

You plan to use Microsoft Power BI Desktop and Workspace1 to make version-controlled changes to a semantic model stored in Repo1. The changes will be built and deployed to Workspace2 by using Azure Pipelines.

You need to ensure that report and semantic model definitions are saved as individual text files in a folder hierarchy. The solution must minimize development and maintenance effort.

In which file format should you save the changes?

- A. PBIDS
- B. PBIX
- C. PBIT
- D. PBIP

Answer: B

Explanation:

When working with Power BI Desktop and Git integration for version control, report and semantic model definitions should be saved in the PBIX format. PBIX is the Power BI Desktop file format that contains definitions for reports, data models, and queries, and it can be easily saved and tracked in a version-controlled environment. The solution should minimize development and maintenance effort, and saving in PBIX format allows for the easiest transition from development to deployment, especially when using Azure Pipelines for CI/CD (continuous integration/continuous deployment) practices.

References: The use of PBIX files with Power BI Desktop and Azure Repos for version control is discussed in Microsoft's official Power BI documentation, particularly in the sections covering Power BI Desktop files and Azure DevOps integration.

NEW QUESTION # 16

You have a Fabric tenant that contains JSON files in OneLake. The files have one billion items.

You plan to perform time series analysis of the items.

You need to transform the data, visualize the data to find insights, perform anomaly detection, and share the insights with other business users. The solution must meet the following requirements:

- * Use parallel processing
- * Minimize the duplication of data.
- * Minimize how long it takes to load the data.

What should you use to transform and visualize the data?

- A. a Microsoft Power BI report that uses core visuals
- B. the pandas library in a Fabric notebook
- C. the PySpark library in a Fabric notebook

Answer: C
