Splunk Core Certified Advanced Power User Sample Questions (Q87-Q92):

NEW QUESTION # 87
Which of the following fields are provided by the fieldsummary command? (select all that apply)

- A. dc
- B. stdev
- C. count
- D. mean

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
The fieldsummary command in Splunk generates statistical summaries of fields in the search results, including the count of events that contain the field (count) and the distinct count of field values (dc). These summaries provide insights into the prevalence and distribution of fields within the dataset, which can be valuable for understanding the data's structure and content. Standard deviation (stdev) and mean (mean) are not directly provided by fieldsummary but can be calculated using other commands like stats for fields that contain numerical data.

NEW QUESTION # 88
Which function of the stats command creates a multivalue entry?

- A. makemv
- B. list
- C. mvcombine
- D. eval

Answer: B

Explanation:
The list function of the stats command creates a multivalue entry, combining multiple occurrences of a field into a single multivalue field.

NEW QUESTION # 89
Which of the following can be used to access external lookups?

- A. Perl and Python
- B. Python and Ruby
- C. Python and binary executable
- D. Perl and binary executable

Answer: C

Explanation:
Splunk supports external lookups that enrich search results using scripts or binary executables. Python and binary executables are commonly used for creating these external lookups, as Python is widely supported, and binary executables can handle performance-critical tasks.

NEW QUESTION # 90
Which of the following is accurate regarding predefined drilldown tokens?

- A. There are eight categories of predefined drilldown tokens.
- B. They vary by visualization type.
- C. They capture data from a form input.
- D. They are defined by a panel's base search.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Predefined drilldown tokens in Splunk vary by visualization type. These tokens are placeholders that capture dynamic values based on user interactions with dashboard elements, such as clicking on a chart segment or table row. Different visualization types may have different drilldown tokens.

NEW QUESTION # 91
What is returned when Splunk finds fewer than the minimum matches for each lookup value?

- A. Only the first match.
- B. The default match value until the minimum match threshold Is reached.
- C. The first match unless the time_field attribute is specified.
- D. The default value NULL until the minimum match threshold is reached.

Answer: D

Explanation:
When Splunk's lookup feature finds fewer than the minimum matches specified for each lookup value, it returns the default value NULL for those unmatched entries until the minimum match threshold is reached (Option A). This behavior ensures that lookups return consistent and expected results, even when the available data does not meet the specified criteria for a minimum number of matches.
