ISTQB Certified Tester Advanced Level - Test Manager Sample Questions (Q185-Q190):

NEW QUESTION # 185

You are the Test Manager on a project to replace an old sales and merchandising system with one that will be based on modern platforms.

The main requirements for the system are:

- * Loading sales data, sent electronically from the stores each evening, into a central database.
- * Producing sales reports for the merchandisers.
- * Producing forecast reports, used to predict demand. Loading sales data and producing reports with the current system has frequently taken longer than the overnight processing window allows. The Data Centre Manager requires that all batch processing takes at least 10% less time than currently. The Sales and Merchandising Manager is more concerned about usability because the parameter entry will be complex. Which option contains two key considerations that would need to be added to your test approach?

- A. Full user experience testing in a model office lab and load testing on user parameter entry
- B. Usability testing in pre-prod by the team; performance efficiency testing in pre-prod too
- C. Usability testing during system testing; performance efficiency testing post system test phase
- D. Usability testing during system testing and acceptance testing in pre-prod; performance testing in pre-prod

Answer: D

Explanation:

Testing usability and performance in a realistic pre-production environment helps validate non-functional requirements under near-live conditions.

"Evaluating non-functional quality characteristics such as... performance efficiency... and usability" is a core part of test types.

"Acceptance testing... focused on verifying a new feature against its acceptance criteria and validating that a new feature satisfies the users' needs" can also include non-functional testing like usability and performance.

NEW QUESTION # 186

Which of the following metrics would be most beneficial to collect to determine the effectiveness of a review process? [2]

- A. The business criticality of each module that was reviewed
- B. The number of defects found in production for each module that was reviewed
- C. The development language used to create each module that was reviewed
- D. The elapsed time between each module's review and its corresponding deployment into production

Answer: B

Explanation:

The effectiveness of a review process can be measured by how well it detects and removes defects from the work products being reviewed<sup>1</sup>. One of the metrics that can indicate the defect detection capability of a review process is the number of defects found in production for each module that was reviewed<sup>2</sup>. This metric can show how many defects escaped the review process and were not detected until the software was deployed. A lower number of defects found in production means a higher review effectiveness.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer. Option B is incorrect because the development language used to create each module that was reviewed is not relevant to the review process effectiveness. Option C is incorrect because the elapsed time between each module's review and its corresponding deployment into production is not a measure of defect detection or removal, but rather a measure of development speed or efficiency. Option D is incorrect because the business criticality of each module that was reviewed is not a measure of defect detection or removal, but rather a measure of risk or priority. Your Project Manager has challenged you to come up with a process improvement strategy using the IDEAL model. Which step within the process defines the success criteria? [2]

- A. Diagnosing
- B. Entrance
- C. Analysis
- D. Initiation

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the IDEAL model, the Diagnosing step is where the success criteria are defined. This step involves understanding the current state and identifying gaps between the current and desired states. It sets the stage for creating action plans to address these gaps and defines the metrics for success.

References: The information is based on the ISTQB Advanced Level Test Manager documents, which outline the IDEAL model and its application in process improvement within the context of software testing.
