NEW QUESTION # 196

A project has consistently been lagging in cost performance index (CPI) and schedule performance index (SPI) over the past few months. The risk manager realizes that some activities are taking longer than expected and more resources are needed. Which project artifact should the risk manager analyze to mitigate the risk of further project overrun?

- A. Work breakdown structure (WBS)
- B. Contingency reserves
- C. Risk impact matrix
- D. Schedule and resource assumptions

Answer: D

Explanation:

When a project experiences consistent deviations in cost performance index (CPI) and schedule performance index (SPI), it indicates underlying issues with the project's assumptions regarding schedule and resources.

Analyzing these assumptions helps identify discrepancies between planned and actual performance, such as underestimated task durations or insufficient resource allocation. By revisiting and adjusting these assumptions, the risk manager can develop strategies to mitigate further overruns and align the project with its objectives.

NEW QUESTION # 197

Some issues and unexpected results were found after completing the first phase of a project. The project team is planning the next phase and team members want to avoid the previous issues.

What should the risk manager do to avoid the previous issues?

- A. Improve monitoring and controlling of activities.
- B. Create an issue log to share with the team.
- C. Document the issues in the lessons learned.
- D. Use the information for a risk workshop.

Answer: D

Explanation:

According to the PMI Risk Management Professional (PMI-RMP)® Examination Content Outline¹, one of the tasks in the domain of Risk Identification is to use the information from project documents, lessons learned, and other sources to facilitate the risk identification process¹. A risk workshop is a tool and technique for risk identification that involves bringing together the project team, stakeholders, subject matter experts, and risk management experts to identify and analyze the project risks in a structured and collaborative manner². In this scenario, the risk manager should use the information from the issues and unexpected results found in the first phase of the project for a risk workshop, to avoid the previous issues in the next phase. The risk workshop will help the risk manager and the project team to identify the root causes of the issues, assess their probability and impact, and develop appropriate risk responses. The risk workshop will also enable the risk manager to update the risk register and the risk report with the new information and communicate the risk status to the relevant stakeholders. The risk manager should not improve monitoring and controlling of activities, because that is not a specific action to avoid the previous issues, but rather a general practice that should be done throughout the project life cycle³. The risk manager should not document the issues in the lessons learned, because that is not enough to avoid the previous issues, but rather a way to capture and share the knowledge gained from the project for future reference⁴. The risk manager should not create an issue log to share with the team, because that is not a proactive risk management technique, but rather a reactive way to track and resolve the issues that have already occurred⁵. NEW QUESTION # 198

A risk manager is confident that they have identified and quantified the risks and opportunities for a project. When presenting their work to management, on what areas should the risk manager focus? (Choose two.)

- A. Huge opportunities that possibly bring an additional 30% return for 10 projects in the next year
- B. Risks as they apply to the organization's overall risk management philosophy and strategic ambition
- C. Risks that are tied to the success of the organization
- D. Risks related to cost that will impact the major projects that are currently in the execution phase
- E. Risk mitigation actions that will require work from stakeholders

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

According to the PMBOK Guide, 6th edition, Section 11.1.3.1, Enterprise Environmental Factors, one of the factors that can influence the Plan Risk Management process is the organization's risk attitude, appetite, tolerance, and thresholds. These terms describe the degree of uncertainty that an organization is willing to accept in pursuit of its goals, and how it approaches, operates, and responds to risk. Therefore, when presenting their work to management, the risk manager should focus on the risks that are tied to the success of the organization, and the risks as they apply to the organization's overall risk management philosophy and strategic ambition. These aspects can help the management to understand the alignment of the project risks with the organizational objectives and values, and to make informed decisions about risk responses. The other options are less relevant or too specific for a management presentation, and may not reflect the organization's risk attitude or priorities. Reference: PMBOK Guide, 6th edition, Section 11.1.3.1, Enterprise Environmental Factors¹ The risk manager should focus on risks that are directly tied to the success of the organization and those that align with the organization's risk management philosophy and strategic ambition. This will ensure that management is informed about the most relevant risks and opportunities for the project.
