NEW QUESTION # 60

A business education teacher is designing a lesson on effective workplace communication and wants to emphasize the importance of adapting communication styles to diverse audiences. Which of the following scenarios best illustrates the need for adapting communication style to ensure effective message delivery in a professional setting?

- A. A supervisor posts a general announcement on a bulletin board, expecting all staff to read and act on it promptly.

- B. A manager uses technical jargon during a presentation to a group of new interns, causing confusion among the audience.
- C. An employee sends a detailed email to a colleague who prefers brief, in-person updates, leading to delayed response.
- D. A team leader conducts a performance review using a standardized form, ignoring the employee's unique contributions.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Adapting communication style to the audience is critical for effective message delivery in professional settings. In Option A, the manager's use of technical jargon fails to account for the new interns' lack of familiarity with the terminology, causing confusion and illustrating the need to tailor language to the audience's knowledge level. Option B involves a preference for communication medium (email vs. in-person), not style adaptation. Option C pertains to performance evaluation, not communication style. Option D addresses communication channel choice, not style. This question tests the ability to recognize the importance of audience analysis in workplace communication, a key concept in the Communication and Career Development category. It challenges candidates to apply nuanced communication principles, reflecting the depth and complexity of the Praxis 5101 exam.
