CFA Institute Sustainable Investing Certificate (CFA-SIC) Exam Sample Questions (Q417-Q422):

NEW QUESTION # 417

Over the last several years a company has traded at an average price-to-earnings ratio (P/E) of 12x, compared to a peer group range of 11x to 13x. If the company implements a new risk management framework to better manage material ESG risks relative to its peers, it would most likely justify a P/E ratio of:

- A. 13x
- B. 11x
- C. 12x

Answer: A

Explanation:

Implementing a stronger ESG risk management framework can reduce a company's risk profile, potentially justifying a higher P/E ratio as investors are willing to pay more for a company with lower ESG risks.

NEW QUESTION # 418

Which of the following describes a key goal of the EU Green Taxonomy?

- A. To classify all businesses based on their ESG scores
- B. To mandate that all public companies invest in climate solutions
- C. To define which economic activities can be considered environmentally sustainable

Answer: C

Explanation:

The EU Green Taxonomy provides a classification system that defines which economic activities are environmentally sustainable, ensuring investors and companies align with EU climate goals.

* It does not classify all businesses by ESG scores (A).

* It does not mandate investment in climate solutions (C), but encourages it.

NEW QUESTION # 419

Which of the following corporate governance structures is most common around the world?

- A. Single-tier boards
- B. Joint auditors
- C. Cumulative voting

Answer: A

Explanation:

The single-tier board system (Option B) is the most common governance structure globally, particularly in the United States, the United Kingdom, and many Commonwealth countries. In this system, executive and non-executive directors sit on the same board, overseeing management and strategic decisions.

Joint auditors (Option A) are primarily used in France and India for financial oversight but are not a standard governance structure.

Cumulative voting (Option C), which allows minority shareholders to have a greater voice in board elections, is common in some jurisdictions (e.g., the U.S. for shareholder rights protection) but is not a universal governance structure.

NEW QUESTION # 420

Regarding ESG engagement, debt and equity investors' interests are most likely aligned when the investee:

- A. Is engaged in capital restructuring.
- B. Has a high investment-grade rating.
- C. Faces insolvency risk.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Debt (bondholders) and equity (shareholders) investors generally have different priorities, but their interests align in times of financial distress.

Why A (Insolvency risk) is correct:

If a company faces insolvency, both debt and equity investors want stability and restructuring to avoid losses.

Both groups engage with management to push for financial recovery.

Why not B or C?

B (Capital restructuring) may benefit one group over the other.

C (High credit rating) means fewer financial concerns, reducing the need for alignment.

NEW QUESTION # 421

Which of the following ESG integration techniques is an example of policy engagement? An investor:

- A. Voting on resolutions at an investee company's annual general meeting
- B. Embedding ESG into their strategic asset allocation program
- C. Responding to a regulator's public consultation on ESG issues

Answer: C

Explanation:

Policy engagement refers to efforts by investors to influence regulatory frameworks. An example of this would be responding to a regulator's public consultation on ESG issues, thereby contributing to the development of ESG policies that can drive broader change across markets and industries.
