AVIXA Certified Technology Specialist Sample Questions (Q249-Q254):

NEW QUESTION # 249
What does a compressor control in an audio system?

- A. frequency
- B. directivity
- C. dynamic range
- D. phase

Answer: C

Explanation:
In an audio system, a compressor controls the dynamic range by reducing the difference between the loudest and quietest parts of the audio signal. Compressors are used to maintain a consistent volume level, which is useful for both live and recorded audio environments.
CTS Technology Specialist Reference
CTS curriculum covers audio processing tools like compressors, which are essential for managing dynamic range and ensuring consistent audio output.

NEW QUESTION # 250
In order to mount a projector so that it is horizontally centered with the suspended screen, the technician should look at which drawings in the plans?

- A. detail
- B. reflected ceiling
- C. sections
- D. elevations

Answer: B

Explanation:
To mount a projector so that it is horizontally centered with the suspended screen, the technician should look at the reflected ceiling drawings in the plans. Reflected ceiling plans provide a view from above, showing the layout and alignment of ceiling elements, including projectors, screens, lighting, and other fixtures. This perspective is essential for ensuring that the projector is correctly aligned with the screen. Axis Technology Specialist documentation highlights the use of reflected ceiling plans for precise alignment of AV equipment.

NEW QUESTION # 251
The integrator gets an urgent service call from the client's AV engineer that there is no power indication on the HDMI switcher in the rack. What is the BEST workaround that the integrator can suggest?

- A. patch the Input to the output, bypassing the switcher
- B. change the power supply of the faulty unit
- C. bring in another switcher to replace the broken one
- D. call the manufacturer for support

Answer: A

Explanation:
The best immediate workaround is to patch the input directly to the output, bypassing the switcher. This allows the system to continue functioning while a more permanent solution is found. It ensures that the client experiences minimal downtime and disruption. Changing the power supply or replacing the switcher are also viable options, but they may take more time and resources. Calling the manufacturer for support can also be part of the solution process, but it doesn't provide an immediate workaround.

NEW QUESTION # 252
When should preventive maintenance be undertaken?

- A. at scheduled times independent of system failures
- B. after a customer has reported a system failure
- C. when there is more than one failure in the system
- D. when a projector lamp has failed

Answer: A

Explanation:
Preventive maintenance is planned maintenance conducted at regular intervals to ensure system reliability and prevent issues before they occur, rather than in response to system failures.

CTS Technology Specialist ReferenceCTS training on maintenance highlights the importance of scheduled preventive maintenance to keep systems operating smoothly and extend equipment lifespan.

NEW QUESTION # 253

If content is protected, the HDCP handshake(s) occurs

- A. every few seconds after the hotplug circuit is first completed.
- B. only when the hotplug circuit is first completed.
- C. only when the source is turned on.
- D. only when the display is turned on.

Answer: B

Explanation:

HDCP (High-bandwidth Digital Content Protection) requires an initial handshake to authenticate the connection and ensure content protection. This handshake occurs only when the hotplug circuit is first completed between the source and the display. This process ensures that both devices support HDCP, allowing the secure transmission of protected content. Once established, the HDCP link does not repeatedly handshake unless the connection is reset.
CTS Technology Specialist ReferenceThe CTS curriculum on digital video interfaces covers the HDCP handshake process and explains that it occurs upon initial connection to prevent unauthorized copying and redistribution of content.
