- A. Defining alert thresholds

- B. Establishing performance benchmarks
- C. Collecting historical data
- D. Analyzing network traffic patterns

答案： B

解題說明：

The primary objective of setting a metric baseline is to establish performance benchmarks for comparison and evaluation.

問題 #17

What is the primary objective of network optimization recommendations?

- A. Limiting software compatibility
- B. Improving network performance
- C. Maximizing network complexity
- D. Reducing hardware costs

答案： B

解題說明：

The primary objective of network optimization recommendations is to improve network performance, efficiency, and reliability by implementing best practices and addressing identified issues and bottlenecks.

問題 #18

What Meraki platform supports ThousandEyes?

- A. Meraki MX (Security Appliances)
- B. Meraki MV (Smart Cameras)
- C. Meraki MG (Cellular Gateways)
- D. Meraki MS Series (Switches)
- E. Meraki MR Series (Wireless Access Points)
- F. All of the above

答案： A

解題說明：

According to the Designing and Implementing Enterprise Network Assurance (300-445 ENNA) curriculum, the native integration of ThousandEyes within the Meraki portfolio is specifically focused on the Meraki MX security and SD-WAN appliances. This integration allows users to install ThousandEyes Enterprise Agents directly on supported Meraki MX hardware, providing critical visibility into the performance of services that distributed users rely on.

The Meraki MX (Option A) supports the ThousandEyes Enterprise Agent as a containerized service that can be activated with a single click within the Meraki Dashboard. This integration is designed to provide better monitoring and testing capabilities for customers interested in improving the quality of their experience and adding the appropriate SD-WAN policies to optimize network performance. By running the agent natively on the MX, administrators can monitor the performance of external applications and services directly from the SD-WAN sites, bridging the gap between local branch health and global internet performance.

While Cisco continues to expand its assurance integrations across the portfolio, the MR (Wireless), MS (Switching), MV (Camera), and MG (Cellular) series do not currently support the native, "on-box" execution of the ThousandEyes Enterprise Agent. For these other platforms, visibility is typically achieved through passive monitoring via Meraki Insight (MI) or by deploying ThousandEyes agents on connected client devices (Endpoint Agents) or nearby infrastructure.

Therefore, the Meraki MX is the only verified platform supporting native ThousandEyes agent deployment in this context.

問題 #19

What are the key metrics to monitor when setting alerts for connectivity changes from wired to wireless networks? (Choose Two)

- A. Encryption type used
- B. Change in IP address
- C. Bandwidth utilization
- D. Signal strength fluctuations

答案: B,D

問題 #20

Drag and Drop Question

An engineer must set up maximum rate throughput testing between two Cisco ThousandEyes agents. Drag and drop the ThousandEyes test options from the bottom onto the boxes in the configuration screen, which allows for maximum rate throughput testing. Some options may be used more than once. Not all options are used.

Answer Area

Basic Configuration Advanced Settings

Target Agent

Interval 2 minutes

Agents

Protocol

Enable Throughput

TCP	Cloud Agent	Source to Target
UDP	Enterprise Agent

答案:

解題說明:

Answer Area

Basic Configuration Advanced Settings

Target Agent: Enterprise Agent

Interval: 2 minutes

Agents: Enterprise Agent

Direction: Enterprise Agent

Protocol: TCP

Enable Throughput

TCP	Cloud Agent	Source to Target
UDP	Enterprise Agent

Explanation:

Throughput testing in ThousandEyes requires two Enterprise Agents, because Cloud Agents cannot participate in throughput tests. Enabling maximum-rate throughput also requires a TCP- based active measurement and specifying the traffic flow as Source to Target, which defines the sender-receiver direction for the throughput test.
