ISC Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP) Sample Questions (Q1263-Q1268):

NEW QUESTION # 1263

Which choice MOST accurately describes the differences between standards, guidelines, and procedures?

- A. Procedures are step-by-step recommendations for complying with mandatory guidelines.
- B. Standards are recommended policies, and guidelines are mandatory policies.
- C. Procedures are step-by-step instructions for compliance with mandatory standards.
- D. Procedures are the general recommendations for compliance with mandatory guidelines.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The correct answer is "Procedures are step-by-step instructions for compliance with mandatory standards". The other answers are incorrect.

NEW QUESTION # 1264

When establishing a violation tracking and analysis process, which one of the following parameters is used to keep the quantity of data to manageable levels?

- A. Circular logging
- B. Quantity baseline
- C. Maximum log size
- D. Clipping levels

Answer: D

Explanation:

To make violation tracking effective, clipping levels must be established. A clipping level is a baseline of user activity that is considered a routine level of user errors. When a clipping level is exceeded, a violation record is then produced. Clipping levels are also used for variance detection. -Ronald Krutz The CISSP PREP Guide (gold edition) pg 318

NEW QUESTION # 1265

Which of the following is the act of performing tests and evaluations to test a system's security level to see if it complies with the design specifications and security requirements?

- A. Validation
- B. Assessment
- C. Accuracy
- D. Verification

Answer: D

Explanation:

Verification vs. Validation:

Verification determines if the product accurately represents and meets the specifications. A product can be developed that does not match the original specifications. This step ensures that the specifications are properly met.

Validation determines if the product provides the necessary solution intended real-world problem. In large projects, it is easy to lose sight of overall goal. This exercise ensures that the main goal of the project is met.

From DITSCAP:

6.3.2. Phase 2, Verification. The Verification phase shall include activities to verify compliance of the system with previously agreed security requirements. For each life-cycle development activity, DoD Directive 5000.1 (reference (i)), there is a corresponding set of security activities, enclosure 3, that shall verify compliance with the security requirements and evaluate vulnerabilities.

6.3.3. Phase 3, Validation. The Validation phase shall include activities to evaluate the fully integrated system to validate system operation in a specified computing environment with an acceptable level of residual risk. Validation shall culminate in an approval to operate.

You must also be familiar with Verification and Validation for the purpose of the exam. A simple definition for Verification would be whether or not the developers followed the design specifications along with the security requirements. A simple definition for Validation would be whether or not the final product meets the end user needs and can be use for a specific purpose.

Wikipedia has an informal description that is currently written as: Validation can be expressed by the query "Are you building the right thing?" and Verification by "Are you building it right?"

NOTE:

DITSCAP was replaced by DIACAP some time ago (2007). While DITSCAP had defined both a verification and a validation phase, the DIACAP only has a validation phase. It may not make a difference in the answer for the exam; however, DIACAP is the cornerstone policy of DOD C&A and IA efforts today. Be familiar with both terms just in case all of a sudden the exam becomes updated with the new term

NEW QUESTION # 1266

Within the OSI model, at what layer are some of the SLIP, CSLIP, PPP control functions provided?

- A. Data Link
- B. Presentation
- C. Application
- D. Transport

Answer: A

Explanation:

RFC 1661 - The Point-to-Point Protocol (PPP) specifies that the Point-to-Point Protocol (PPP) provides a standard method for transporting multi-protocol datagrams over point-to-point links. PPP is comprised of three main components:

- 1 A method for encapsulating multi-protocol datagrams.
- 2 A Link Control Protocol (LCP) for establishing, configuring, and testing the data-link connection.
- 3 A family of Network Control Protocols (NCPs) for establishing and configuring different network-layer protocols.

NEW QUESTION # 1267

Which of the following biometric parameters are better suited for authentication use over a long period of time?

- A. Voice pattern
- B. Retina pattern
- C. Signature dynamics
- D. Iris pattern

Answer: D

Explanation:

The iris pattern is considered lifelong. Unique features of the iris are: freckles, rings, rifts, pits, striations, fibers, filaments, furrows, vasculature and coronas. Voice, signature and retina patterns are more likely to change over time, thus are not as suitable for authentication over a long period of time without needing re-enrollment.
