NEW QUESTION # 159

How can you allocate licenses in the Automation Cloud?

- A. Only group allocation, the user have to assign the license to themself afterwards
- B. Only direct allocation to user, having the option to group the users in the tenant
- C. Pair allocation only, the license is assigned to the user and bound to a selected group
- D. Direct assignment to user, Group allocation

Answer: D

Explanation:

In the Automation Cloud, licenses can be allocated either by direct assignment to a user or by group allocation.

This flexibility allows administrators to efficiently manage and distribute licenses based on organizational needs and user roles, ensuring that resources are optimized across the tenant. References: UiPath Documentation on License Management in Automation Cloud at <https://docs.uipath.com/>.

NEW QUESTION # 161

What is an Asset in UiPath?

- A. A way to store and manage the source code for custom activities.
- B. A way to store and organize project-related files and folders.
- C. A way to store shared variables or credentials that can be used in different automation projects.
- D. A way to store and organize reusable automation components within the platform.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In UiPath Orchestrator, Assets are managed resources such as credentials, connection strings, or other variable data that multiple processes can access securely. According to UiPath:

"Assets in Orchestrator are shared variables or credentials that can be used in automation projects, ensuring centralized management and secure access control." Assets are configured and managed through Orchestrator, allowing for seamless updates without modifying individual automation projects.
