ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester-Foundation Level - Usability Testing Sample Questions (Q28-Q33):

NEW QUESTION # 28

You're conducting a user survey and you have reached the third stage, selecting an appropriate questionnaire. You have decided to use a standardized questionnaire as you want to benchmark against previous usability measurements.

Which of the following user questionnaires allow benchmarking against previous usability measurements?

- i. SUS
- ii. SUMI
- iii. WAMMI

- A. i, ii and iii are true
- B. i is true, ii & iii are false
- C. ii & iii are true, i is false
- D. i & ii are true, iii is false

Answer: A

Explanation:

SUS (System Usability Scale), SUMI (Software Usability Measurement Inventory), and WAMMI (Website Analysis and Measurement Inventory) are all validated, standardized usability questionnaires that support benchmarking. They allow comparison against known usability scores from a wide variety of systems. These instruments provide numeric scores that can be interpreted using benchmark datasets or industry standards.

Therefore, all three-i, ii, and iii-are true, making D the correct answer.

Here are the verified answers and detailed explanations for Questions 22 through 25, formatted in your specified structure:

NEW QUESTION # 29

What is a usability test task?

- A. A process through which information about the usability of a system is gathered in order to improve the system (known as formative evaluation) or to assess the merit or worth of a system (known as summative evaluation)
- B. A usability test execution activity specified by the moderator that needs to be accomplished by a usability test participant within a given period of time
- C. A document specifying a sequence of actions for the execution of a usability test. It is used by the moderator to keep track of briefing and pre-session interview questions, usability test tasks, and post- session interview questions
- D. A test session in usability testing in which a usability test participant is executing tests, moderated by a moderator and observed by a number of observers

Answer: B

Explanation:

A usability test task is a clearly defined activity that a participant is asked to perform during a usability test session. These tasks are typically created by the test designer or moderator and are designed to reflect realistic user goals (e.g., "Find and buy a product"). The purpose is to observe the participant's interaction with the system and identify usability issues. Option A describes a usability test script, not a task. Option C defines usability evaluation in general, and D refers to a session, not a specific task. Therefore, B is correct.

NEW QUESTION # 30

Your last 20-pages usability test report wasn't received well by the developers; only two of the 25 usability problems have been fixed. This time, you want to stick to the best practices in order to obtain better acceptance by the development team.

What are you going to do differently this time?

- A. Include positive findings in the report, not only usability problems
- B. Make the report more detailed and longer
- C. Include contact details of the test participants so that the development team can contact them in case they have questions
- D. Add the low-priority findings you didn't include in the first report

Answer: A

Explanation:

Usability test reports are more effective when they are balanced and include not only problems but also what worked well. Including positive findings increases credibility, encourages the development team, and helps them understand what should remain unchanged. Option B violates privacy and ethical standards. Option C may dilute focus, and D could worsen the problem by making the report less accessible. Thus, the best practice supported by usability.gov and Nielsen Norman Group is to include both positive and negative findings.

NEW QUESTION # 31

What is good accessibility?

- A. Good usability regardless of disturbances like bright sunlight, noise or wind
- B. Good usability of a software product by people with limited knowledge of the software
- C. Good usability of a software product on all devices (smart phone, computer, etc.)
- D. Good usability of a software product by people with limited vision, hearing, dexterity, cognition or physical mobility

Answer: D

Explanation:

Accessibility refers to designing products so that people with disabilities or limitations (permanent or temporary) can use them effectively. According to the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) and ISO standards, accessibility focuses on ensuring that users with vision, hearing, cognitive, or mobility impairments can access digital interfaces. Option D captures this intent accurately. The other options relate to general usability or responsiveness (e.g., device adaptability or user experience in noisy environments) but do not address the inclusive nature of accessibility as defined by official guidelines.

#####

NEW QUESTION # 32

Which of the following is the best description for a usability test session?

- A. A test activity specified by the moderator that needs to be accomplished by a usability test participant within a given period of time.
- B. A period of time in which a usability test participant is executing tests, moderated by a moderator and observed by a number of observers.
- C. A black-box test technique in which test cases are designed to execute usability scenarios.
- D. A document specifying a sequence of actions for the execution of a usability test.

Answer: B

Explanation:

A usability test session is a controlled period during which a test participant performs tasks using the system under test while being observed by a moderator and sometimes additional stakeholders or observers. The goal is to understand how users interact with the interface and identify usability problems. Option A describes an individual task, not the whole session. Option C refers to a test plan or test script, and Option D describes a test technique rather than a usability session. Thus, option B provides the most accurate and comprehensive definition.
