Nutanix Certified Professional - End User Computing (NCP-EUC) 6.10 Exam

Sample Questions (Q95-Q100):

NEW QUESTION # 95

An administrator has been provided additional business requirements for the newly formed business continuity plan. Objectives include the following:

- * Seamless failover
- * Retaining IPs
- * Failover to a DRaaS

Which Nutanix provided platform which the administrator choose?

- A. Xi Leap
- B. NC2 On AWS
- C. NC2 on Azure
- D. Leap DR

Answer: A

Explanation:

A cloud-based DR service that allows customers to protect their Nutanix workloads in a Nutanix-owned cloud platform⁶. Xi Leap eliminates the need for multiple products and provides end-to-end security, automation, and SLA compliance⁶.

NEW QUESTION # 96

An administrator wants to deploy 1,000 virtual desktops on Nutanix AOS and wants to leverage a cloning technology from the company's chosen virtual desktop broker vendor which is Citrix.

What kind of Nutanix storage efficiency feature should the administrator use for this solution?

- A. Compression
- B. Compression + Deduplication
- C. Deduplication + Capacity
- D. Deduplication

Answer: D

Explanation:

one of the possible Nutanix storage efficiency features that the administrator can use for this solution is Deduplication. Deduplication is a technology that eliminates duplicate blocks of data and reduces storage consumption. Deduplication can be enabled on a per-container basis and can provide significant savings for Citrix virtual desktop deployments that use cloning technologies such as Machine Creation Services (MCS) or Provisioning Services (PVS)¹.

NEW QUESTION # 97

An administrator has a Nutanix NX-based cluster running non-persistent EUC workloads. The administrator has just received new Cisco UCS nodes to be used to extend the environment. What action must the administrator take to use the Cisco UCS nodes in the Nutanix environment?

- A. Add nodes to the cluster and configure advanced processor compatibility feature.
- B. Create a new cluster for the Cisco UCS nodes.
- C. Add nodes to the existing NX-based cluster.
- D. Add nodes to the cluster and configure the CPU feature sets.

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the Nutanix Hardware Administration Guide and Product Mixing Restrictions, mixing nodes from different hardware vendors (OEMs) in the same cluster is not supported.

Specifically, a cluster must contain nodes from a single vendor (e.g., all Nutanix NX, all Dell XC, or all Cisco UCS). Mixing Nutanix NX nodes with Cisco UCS nodes within the same cluster is explicitly listed as an unsupported configuration due to differences in hardware lifecycle management, firmware updates, and foundation processes.

Therefore, the administrator must create a new, separate cluster for the Cisco UCS nodes. They can then leverage features like Cluster-to-Cluster replication or a multi-cluster VDI broker configuration to manage the environment, but the nodes cannot be merged into the existing NX cluster.

NEW QUESTION # 98

An administrator plans to deploy a VMWare Horizon Solution on AHV. The administrator used the cluster command to verify if Shadow Clones are enabled in the AHV environment. This command shows the following output:

Which action should the administrator take to enable Shadow Clones?

- A. Execute the `cluster edit-prams enable-shadow-clones=true` command.
- B. Connect to Prism Central
- C. Execute the `cluster enable -cluster _cluster_uuid 0xxx - show_clones=true` command.
- D. Connect to the AHV Host by SSH.

Answer: C

Explanation:

an action that the administrator should take to enable Shadow Clones for a VMWare Horizon Solution on AHV is Connect to Prism Central and execute the `cluster enable -cluster _cluster_uuid 0xxx - show_clones=true` command. Shadow Clones are a feature that helps decrease read latency by creating local copies of frequently accessed data blocks on each host². To enable Shadow Clones, the administrator needs to connect to Prism Central and run a cluster command with the appropriate parameters¹.

NEW QUESTION # 99

Refer the exhibit

An administrator is getting complaints from users regarding virtual desktop performance. The user base is a mixture of task workers, knowledge workers, and power users. The administrator suspects there are user Virtual desktops that are consuming resources and are starving the other virtual desktops from performing adequately.

How many virtual desktops are contributing to this issue?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: C

Explanation:

The CPU usage percentage indicates how much of the allocated CPU resources the virtual desktop is consuming.

A high CPU usage percentage means that the virtual desktop is using a lot of CPU resources, which can affect the performance of other virtual desktops on the same host or cluster.

According to Nutanix best practices, the recommended CPU usage percentage for virtual desktops is less than 80%.

- * VM-0001 (99%)
- * VM-0002 (98%)
- * VM-0003 (97%)
- * VM-0004 (96%)
- * VM-0005 (95%)
- * VM-0010 (85%)
- * VM-0016 (81%)

These virtual desktops are likely contributing to the performance issue by consuming too much CPU resources and starving other virtual desktops from performing adequately.
