Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association Certified Psychiatric Rehabilitation Practitioner Sample Questions (Q24-Q29):

NEW QUESTION # 24

A woman with a psychiatric disability informs the practitioner that she feels violated in the adult care residence because there are no locks on the bedroom doors. She has awakened to find male residents in her room. She has complained to the manager/owner for months and nothing has been done about it. What is the best way for the practitioner to address this situation?

- A. Demonstrate several self-defense techniques that are effective against intruders.
- B. Call the residence and strongly advise them to address the problem.
- C. Provide the individual with supportive counseling to address underlying sexual concerns.
- D. Provide the individual with the name and telephone number of the local human rights agency.

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question falls under Domain II: Professional Role Competencies, which emphasizes advocacy, ethical practice, and empowering individuals to access resources and assert their rights. The CPRP Exam Blueprint specifies that practitioners must "advocate for individuals' rights and access to appropriate services while maintaining professional boundaries." The scenario involves a serious safety and privacy violation in an adult care residence, requiring the practitioner to empower the individual to address the issue effectively while adhering to ethical standards.

* Option C: Providing the individual with the contact information of a local human rights agency empowers her to seek external advocacy and support to address the residence's failure to ensure her safety and privacy. This aligns with the PRA's emphasis on advocacy and empowerment, as it equips the individual to take action while respecting her autonomy. It also addresses the systemic issue (lack of response from the manager/owner) by connecting her to an authority that can enforce change.

* Option A: Teaching self-defense techniques places the burden on the individual to protect herself, which is inappropriate given the residence's responsibility to provide a safe environment. This does not address the systemic issue or empower the individual to seek resolution.

* Option B: Calling the residence to advise them directly may overstep professional boundaries, as the practitioner is not in a supervisory role over the residence. It also does not empower the individual or ensure a sustainable resolution, as the manager has already ignored her complaints.

* Option D: Providing supportive counseling for "underlying sexual concerns" assumes the issue is psychological rather than a legitimate safety violation, which is dismissive and inappropriate. It fails to address the immediate safety concern or advocate for systemic change.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain II: Professional Role Competencies):

'Tasks include: 2. Advocating for individuals' rights and access to safe and appropriate services. 3.

Empowering individuals to self-advocate and access community resources. 4. Maintaining professional boundaries in all interactions."

NEW QUESTION # 25

In order for practitioners to deeply empathize with persons who have psychiatric disabilities, they must be

- A. involved in their own personal growth.
- B. active in the peer empowerment movement.
- C. physically, spiritually, and mentally healthy.
- D. knowledgeable about available therapeutic interventions.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Empathy is a cornerstone of interpersonal competencies in psychiatric rehabilitation, enabling practitioners to build trust and understand the lived experiences of individuals with psychiatric disabilities. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes self-awareness and ongoing personal development as essential for empathy (Task I.A.3: "Engage in ongoing self-assessment and professional development"). Option D (involved in their own personal growth) directly aligns with this task, as personal growth fosters self-reflection, emotional resilience, and the ability to connect authentically with clients. This involves examining personal biases, values, and experiences to enhance empathetic engagement.

Option A (active in the peer empowerment movement) pertains to advocacy and systems competencies (Domain VI) but is not a requirement for empathy. Option B (physically, spiritually, and mentally healthy) is overly broad and not explicitly linked to empathy in the blueprint, though practitioner wellness supports overall competence (Domain VII). Option C (knowledgeable about therapeutic interventions) relates to professional role competencies (Domain II) rather than interpersonal empathy. The PRA Code of Ethics further underscores self-awareness and personal growth as foundational for ethical, empathetic practice, reinforcing Option D.

NEW QUESTION # 26

What is the MOST critical component to successful implementation of the Illness Management and Recovery model?

- A. Motivational enhancement strategies
- B. Goal setting standards
- C. Skilled practitioners
- D. Cognitive behavioral therapy

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Illness Management and Recovery (IMR) model is an evidence-based practice that helps individuals manage their mental health conditions through psychoeducation, goal-setting, and skill-building. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain V: Strategies for Facilitating Recovery) emphasizes that the success of IMR depends on the expertise and training of practitioners who deliver the model with fidelity (Task V.B.2):

"Facilitate the development of self-management skills"). Option D (skilled practitioners) aligns with this, as trained practitioners are essential to effectively implement IMR's structured components, including psychoeducation, cognitive-behavioral techniques, and motivational strategies, while adapting to individual needs and maintaining engagement.

Option A (motivational enhancement strategies) is a component of IMR but not the most critical, as it relies on practitioner skill to be effective. Option B (goal setting standards) is part of IMR but secondary to the practitioner's ability to facilitate the process. Option C (cognitive behavioral therapy) is one technique within IMR, not the overarching driver of success. The PRA Study Guide highlights skilled practitioners as the cornerstone of IMR implementation, supporting Option D.

NEW QUESTION # 27

An important first step for a director of a rehabilitation program, who wants to create a positive vision for change, is to focus on

- A. eliminating unwanted behaviors.
- B. planning to eliminate barriers.
- C. supporting desired behaviors.
- D. articulating their own values.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Creating a positive vision for change in a rehabilitation program requires leadership that inspires and aligns stakeholders. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain VI: Systems Competencies) emphasizes that program directors should first articulate their values to establish a recovery-oriented culture and guide organizational change (Task VI.A.1: "Promote a recovery-oriented vision within systems"). Option B (articulating their own values) aligns with this, as clearly defining values like empowerment, inclusion, and hope sets the tone for the program's mission, influencing policies, staff training, and service delivery.

Option A (supporting desired behaviors) is a strategy, not the first step. Option C (eliminating unwanted behaviors) is negative and less visionary. Option D (planning to eliminate barriers) follows vision-setting. The PRA Study Guide highlights value articulation as the foundation for program vision, supporting Option B.

NEW QUESTION # 28

An individual is apprehensive about enrolling in a psychiatric rehabilitation program. What should the practitioner focus on during the first meeting?

- A. Engagement
- B. Motivational interviewing
- C. Diagnosis
- D. Rehabilitation planning

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an individual is apprehensive about enrolling in a rehabilitation program, the practitioner's priority is to build a connection that alleviates fears and encourages participation. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes engagement as the primary focus of initial interactions to establish trust and rapport (Task I.B.3: "Adapt communication strategies to build trust and engagement"). Option A (engagement) aligns with this, as focusing on active listening, empathy, and addressing the individual's concerns fosters a safe space, increasing the likelihood of enrollment and future collaboration.

Option B (diagnosis) is irrelevant, as rehabilitation focuses on functional goals, not clinical diagnosis. Option C (motivational interviewing) is a specific technique that may be used within engagement but is too narrow for the overall focus. Option D (rehabilitation planning) is premature, as apprehension must be addressed before planning can begin. The PRA Study Guide underscores engagement as critical for hesitant individuals, supporting Option A.
