NEW QUESTION # 108

Refer to the exhibit.

A network administrator implemented MPLS LDP changes on PE-A LSR device. The engineer must ensure there are no LDP peer are fully operational. Which LDP feature must the engineer apply to the existing configuration to eliminate the problem?

- A. Configure MPLS LDP NSR for all LDP sessions.
- B. Enable LDP session protection under the routing protocol.
- C. Configure MPLS LDP IGP synchronization on the network.
- D. Disable IP CEF on routers running LDP and enable LDP.

Answer: A

Explanation:

MPLS LDP (Label Distribution Protocol) is used for label distribution in MPLS networks. When making changes to the LDP configuration, it's essential to ensure that the changes do not disrupt existing LDP sessions. In this scenario, the network administrator implemented MPLS LDP changes on the PE-A LSR (Label Switching Router) device, and the goal is to prevent any disruption to LDP peers.

The MPLS LDP Non-Stop Routing (NSR) feature allows LDP sessions to survive control-plane switchover events without interruption. When NSR is enabled, the LDP session state information is synchronized between the active and standby control planes. If the active control plane fails, the standby control plane takes over seamlessly, and LDP sessions continue without interruption.

An engineer is securing a customer's network. Which command completes this configuration and the engineer must use to prevent a DoS attack?

- A. `ttl-security`
- B. `ebgp-multihop`
- C. `neighbor ebgp-multihop`
- D. `neighbor-ttl-security`

Answer: A

Explanation:

The TTL security mechanism is used to protect a router from receiving BGP sessions that are not originated from the expected peer. It drops incoming TCP segments whose TTL value is not equal to or greater than the expected minimum value, thus helping in preventing DoS attacks that could be initiated from an unauthorized source pretending to be a legitimate BGP peer.
