NEW QUESTION # 75

A student is traveling out of the United States to visit family living in Europe. The room booked for the trip costs €120.00 per night. Given that $1.00 (US dollar) is equal to €1.2, how much will it cost per night in US Dollars?

- A. $120.01
- B. $100.00
- C. $120.00
- D. $144.00

Answer: B

Explanation:

This problem involves currency conversion. The exchange rate states that $1 equals €1.2. To convert euros to dollars, divide the euro amount by 1.2. Set up the calculation:  $€120 \div 1.2 = $100$ . Therefore, the cost per night in US dollars is $100. Option C is correct. Option B incorrectly multiplies instead of dividing. Options A and D fail to account for the exchange rate. NEX math problems involving currency emphasize understanding the direction of conversion and selecting the correct operation.

NEW QUESTION # 76

Review the image below.

□ Which is the best piece of evidence that the blue whale evolved from a mammal that once lived on land?

- A. D - jawbones
- B. B - vestigial leg bones
- C. A - spinal column
- D. C - rib cage

Answer: B

Explanation:

Vestigial structures are anatomical features that are reduced in size and function compared to their ancestral form. In whales, vestigial leg bones are remnants of hind limbs that were fully functional in land-dwelling ancestors. These bones no longer serve a locomotor purpose but provide strong evolutionary evidence of descent from terrestrial mammals. The spinal column, rib cage, and jawbones are found in many vertebrates and do not specifically indicate a land-based ancestry. Vestigial leg bones, however, directly point to a time when whales had legs and lived on land before adapting to an aquatic environment. The NEX Science exam frequently tests evolutionary evidence, especially the significance of vestigial structures as proof of common ancestry and evolutionary change over time.

NEW QUESTION # 77

Reading Comprehension

Passage:

Hand hygiene is one of the most effective ways to prevent the spread of infection. Washing hands with soap and water removes many harmful microorganisms. When soap and water are not available, alcohol-based hand sanitizers can reduce the number of germs, though they are not effective against all pathogens.

Which statement is best supported by the passage?

- A. Microorganisms cannot survive on hands
- B. Handwashing helps reduce the spread of infection
- C. Soap and water are unnecessary if sanitizer is available
- D. Hand sanitizers eliminate all microorganisms

Answer: B

Explanation:

The passage emphasizes the importance of hand hygiene in preventing infection. It clearly states that washing hands with soap and water removes harmful microorganisms and that sanitizers can reduce germs when soap is unavailable. This supports the conclusion that handwashing helps reduce the spread of infection. Option C directly reflects this main idea. Option A is incorrect because the passage notes that sanitizers are not effective against all pathogens. Option B contradicts the passage, which presents soap and water as the most effective method. Option D is false because the passage acknowledges that germs can exist on hands. On the NEX exam, supported-detail questions require selecting an answer that accurately restates information from the passage without exaggeration or contradiction.

NEW QUESTION # 78

Which of the following molecules is an electrolyte normally found in the blood?

- A. Lactase
- B.  $Ca^{2+}$
- C. Iodine
- D.  $H_2O$

Answer: B

Explanation:

Electrolytes are charged ions that help regulate nerve function, muscle contraction, and fluid balance in the body. Calcium ions ( $Ca^{2+}$ ) are an important electrolyte found in the blood and play a crucial role in muscle contraction, blood clotting, and nerve signaling. Water is not an electrolyte because it does not carry a charge.

Iodine is a trace element but not a primary blood electrolyte. Lactase is an enzyme involved in digestion, not an electrolyte. The NEX Science section often includes questions related to human physiology and emphasizes understanding ions and their roles in body function.
