Correct

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 159

Will this command ensure that overlay traffic between service tasks is encrypted?

NEW QUESTION # 160

A company's security policy specifies that development and production containers must run on separate nodes in a given Swarm cluster.

Can this be used to schedule containers to meet the security policy requirements?

Solution: node taints

- A. Yes
- B. No

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Node taints cannot be used to schedule containers to meet the security policy requirements, because node taints are a Kubernetes concept and not a Swarm concept. According to the official documentation, node taints are used to mark nodes with certain attributes that prevent pods from being scheduled on them unless they have matching tolerations.

NEW QUESTION # 161

Is this a supported user authentication method for Universal Control Plane?

Solution. SAML

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

SAML is a supported user authentication method for Universal Control Plane (UCP). SAML (Security Assertion Markup Language) is an open standard for exchanging authentication and authorization data between parties, such as an identity provider and a service provider. UCP supports SAML as an external authentication backend, which allows users to log in to UCP using their existing credentials from a SAML identity provider, such as Okta, Ping Identity, OneLogin, etc. UCP also supports other external authentication backends, such as LDAP and Active Directory. References:

<https://docs.docker.com/ee/ucp/admin/configure/external-auth/>,

NEW QUESTION # 162

The following Docker Compose file is deployed as a stack:

version: '3.1'
services:
  app:
    image: app:1.0
    healthcheck:
      test: "curl -fail http://localhost/health || exit 1"
      interval: 10s
      timeout: 5s
      retries: 3
```

Is this statement correct about this health check definition?

Solution. Health checks test for app health ten seconds apart. Three failed health checks transition the container into "unhealthy" status.

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: B

Explanation:

The statement is correct. In the provided Docker Compose file, a health check is defined for the service "app". It uses curl to perform a health check on the application every 10 seconds (as specified by the "interval" parameter). If it fails three times (as specified by the "retries" parameter), then the container is marked as unhealthy. A health check is a way of checking the health of a running container and applying actions based on the result<sup>1</sup>. It can be used to monitor the status of the service and restart the container if it becomes unhealthy<sup>2</sup>. Reference:
