HPE Networking Central Exam Sample Questions (Q32-Q37):

NEW QUESTION # 32

AI Insights reports "High Channel Utilization." What is the most effective corrective step?

- A. Disable band steering.
- B. Utilize the floor plan manager to plan the addition of more access points to the site.
- C. Review RF Insights for interference and co-channel overlap.

Answer: C

Explanation:

High channel utilization indicates that the wireless frequency is congested, either by Wi-Fi traffic or non-Wi-Fi interference.

Reviewing RF Insights allows for a detailed analysis of the radio frequency environment to identify specific sources of interference or high co-channel contention.

This data is essential for determining whether the congestion is caused by too many devices on the same channel or external noise, enabling precise adjustments to channel assignments or power levels.

NEW QUESTION # 33

You suspect DNS resolution failures of wireless clients. Which HPE Aruba Networking Central tool confirms name-resolution status from the AP?

- A. Run an NSLookup in the Troubleshoot panel.
- B. Review event logs only.
- C. Check firmware compliance.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The NSLookup tool, located within the Troubleshoot panel (or diagnostic tab), allows an administrator to initiate a DNS query directly from the Access Point. By testing name resolution from the AP's perspective, you can determine if the issue lies with the DNS server's responsiveness or the network path between the AP and the DNS provider. If the AP can resolve names while the client cannot, the issue is likely isolated to the client's configuration or the specific wireless segment; if the NSLookup fails from the AP as well, it confirms a broader infrastructure or reachability issue with the DNS service itself.

NEW QUESTION # 34

What is the purpose of Aruba Central's topology view?

- A. Visualize network connectivity relationships
- B. Configure authentication servers
- C. Show device licensing information

Answer: A

Explanation:

Topology View graphically displays how devices connect and interact within the network, simplifying troubleshooting and network planning.

NEW QUESTION # 35

You need to implement redundant core switches in a campus environment, ensuring fast failover and independent control and management planes. Which design best suits this requirement?

- A. Two independent switches configured with VRRP and MSTP
- B. VSF to form one logical switch with shared control plane
- C. VSX on supported platforms for distributed control and fast recovery

Answer: C

Explanation:

This design uses VSX, which provides a distributed control plane across two physical switches while keeping their management and control functions independent. It enables fast convergence during failover, supports high availability at the core layer, and avoids the single point of control plane dependency found in stacked architectures.

NEW QUESTION # 36

Which Aruba Central feature simplifies configuration across multiple devices?

- A. Configuration Groups
- B. Alerts Dashboard
- C. Audit Logs

Answer: A

Explanation:

Configuration Groups allow administrators to apply common settings and policies to multiple devices, reducing administrative overhead and ensuring consistency.
