Amazon AWS Certified Developer Associate Exam (DVA-C02) Sample Questions (Q334-Q339):

NEW QUESTION # 334

A company stores customer credit reports in an Amazon S3 bucket. An analytics service uses standard Amazon S3 GET requests to access the reports. A developer must implement a solution to redact personally identifiable information (PII) from the reports before the reports reach the analytics service.

- A. Load the S3 objects into Amazon Redshift by using a COPY command. Implement dynamic data masking. Refactor the analytics service to read from Amazon Redshift.
- B. Create an Amazon Simple Notification Service (Amazon SNS) topic. Implement message data protection. Refactor the analytics service to publish data access requests to the SNS topic.
- C. Use AWS Key Management Service (AWS KMS) to implement encryption in the S3 bucket. Re-upload all the existing S3 objects. Give the kms permission to the analytics service.
- D. Set up an S3 Object Lambda function. Attach the function to an S3 Object Lambda Access Point. Program the function to call a PII redaction API.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Comprehensive Detailed Step by Step Explanation with All AWS Developer References:

To redact PII from S3 objects before they are accessed by the analytics service, the most efficient solution is to use S3 Object Lambda. S3 Object Lambda allows you to add your own code (Lambda function) to process and transform data when it is retrieved from Amazon S3. You can attach a Lambda function to an S3 Object Lambda Access Point, which in this case would run a redaction API to remove PII from the reports.

* Operational Efficiency: S3 Object Lambda handles data processing on the fly, without requiring the data to be permanently transformed or moved to another service (like Amazon Redshift).

* Alternatives:

* Option A: Loading the data into Amazon Redshift would require refactoring the analytics service and maintaining an additional data pipeline, increasing complexity.

* Option C: Using AWS KMS for encryption protects data at rest and in transit, but it does not address PII redaction.

* Option D: SNS is a messaging service and does not support direct data transformation.

NEW QUESTION # 335

A company is running an application built on AWS Lambda functions. One Lambda function has performance issues when it has to download a 50MB file from the Internet in every execution.

This function is called multiple times a second.

What solution would give the BEST performance increase?

- A. Cache the file in Amazon S3
- B. Increase the Lambda maximum execution time
- C. Put an Elastic Load Balancer in front of the Lambda function
- D. Cache the file in the /tmp directory

Answer: A

Which approach addresses this requirement?
