VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q177-Q182):

NEW QUESTION # 177

A financial application is being protected by an Avi WAF policy. During a security audit, the team needs to demonstrate that the WAF is actively protecting against Cross-site Scripting (XSS) attacks and that logs are being generated for these events. Which steps must an administrator take to meet this requirement? (Select all that apply.)

- A. Ensure the Virtual Service Health Score is 100.
- B. Set the WAF Profile mode to WAF_MODE_ENFORCEMENT.
- C. View the WAF Logs for the Virtual Service to find entries triggered by the XSS rule group.
- D. Configure the WAF Policy with the System-CRS-XSS rule group enabled.
- E. Under the Virtual Service Analytics, check the 'Log all headers' option for Non-Significant logs.
- F. Generate test XSS attack traffic against the Virtual IP (VIP).

Answer: C,D,F

NEW QUESTION # 178

A Network Architect is designing a new cloud-native application environment. A key design principle is to avoid creating "traffic trombones," where traffic has to be routed out of a local environment to a centralized security or load balancing stack and then back in. How does Avi's elastic scale out support this principle?

- A. By requiring all Service Engines to be deployed in a single, centralized management cluster.
- B. By ensuring that all backend servers must be in the same subnet as the Service Engines.
- C. By using BGP to advertise all VIPs from a central hardware appliance.
- D. By allowing Service Engines to be deployed as a distributed fabric, close to the applications they serve.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 179

An administrator needs to create a policy that closes the connection for any client trying to access an application using an outdated and insecure version of TLS (e.g., TLS 1.0). Which policy type in Avi is responsible for evaluating this type of connection property?

Policy Evaluation Point

Client ---[SSL/TLS Handshake]---> Service Engine ---> Backend Server

- A. HTTP Request Policy
- B. DNS Policy
- C. WAF Policy
- D. Network Security Policy

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 180

An application team reports intermittent HTTP 503 "Service Unavailable" errors. An Avi administrator reviews the Virtual Service analytics and sees the following information.

- Health Score: 70
- Performance Score: 95
- Resource Score: 25
- Anomaly Score: 90
- Security Score: 100
- Pool: app-pool-prod
- Server `10.10.1.5`: UP
- Server `10.10.1.6`: DOWN (Health Monitor: tcp-hm failed)
- Server `10.10.1.7`: DOWN (Health Monitor: tcp-hm failed)

Based on these analytics, what are the most likely causes of the user-reported errors? (Choose 2.)

- A. Two of the three backend servers in the pool are failing their health checks and are marked down.
- B. There is high network latency between clients and the Service Engines.
- C. The application is responding slowly, causing performance degradation.
- D. The remaining active server (10.10.1.5) is overloaded with traffic that would normally be distributed to three servers.
- E. The WAF policy is too restrictive and is blocking valid requests.

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 181

A DevOps engineer is creating a script to parse Avi logs and automatically alert the security team about high-severity WAF events. The script needs to differentiate between a simple log of a WAF- inspected-but-clean request and a log of a request that was actively blocked. How will the log entries for these two events differ?

- A. The blocked request will be a "Significant Log", while the clean request will be a "Non-Significant Log".

- B. The blocked request will have a different "VIP" address in the log entry.
- C. The blocked request's log entry will be encrypted, while the clean request's log will be in plain text.
- D. The blocked request will not have a "Server IP" field, as it was never sent to the pool.

Answer: A
