CWNP Certified Wireless Analysis Professional Sample Questions (Q71-Q76):

NEW QUESTION # 71

What is the function of 802.11 Management frames?

- A. Manage the BSS
- B. Manage the flow of data
- C. Prioritize network administration traffic
- D. Communicate configuration changes between WLAN controller and APs

Answer: A

Explanation:

The function of 802.11 management frames is to manage the BSS. A BSS (Basic Service Set) is a group of STAs (stations) that share a common SSID (Service Set Identifier) and communicate with each other through an AP (access point) or directly in an ad hoc mode. Management frames are one of the three types of 802.11 frames, along with control and data frames. Management frames are used to establish, maintain, and terminate associations between STAs and APs, as well as to advertise and discover BSSs, exchange security information, report errors, and perform other management functions. The other options are not correct, as they are not functions of 802.11 management frames. Prioritizing network administration traffic, communicating configuration changes between WLAN controller and APs, and managing the flow of data are functions of other types of frames or protocols. Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 75

Which one of the statements regarding the Frame Control field in an 802.11 MAC header is true?

- A. The Frame Control field contains subfields, and some are 1-bit flags
- B. The Frame Control field is always set to 0
- C. The Frame Control field is used to communicate the duration value
- D. Only Control frames have a Frame Control field

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Frame Control field in the 802.11 MAC header is composed of multiple subfields, including several 1-bit flags such as To DS, From DS, More Fragments, Retry, Power Management, More Data, Protected Frame, and Order. These subfields define the type, subtype, and control characteristics of the frame.
