NEW QUESTION # 20

What should an administrator use as an alternative to a Process Builder to expedite the time required to update the records?

- A. Batch Update
- B. Before save Flow Trigger
- C. Workflow Rule Field Change
- D. Screen Row

Answer: B

Explanation:

A before save flow trigger is a type of flow that runs before a record is saved and can update the record without any additional actions or database operations. This can expedite the time required to update the records and improve performance. A before save flow trigger can be used as an alternative to a process builder that updates the same record that triggered it. NEW QUESTION # 21

When should an administrator apply a permission set to a user or group of users versus configuring the user's profile with the necessary access?

- A. When a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires just a little less access than the rest of their team.
- B. When an organization's sharing model is too broad and they need to restrict access beyond what their sharing model and existing profiles provide.
- C. When a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires more access than the rest of their team.
- D. When an organization has opted out of using the standard profiles and created custom profiles.

Answer: C

Explanation:

As explained in question 13, permission sets are collections of settings and permissions that give users access to various tools and functions without changing their profile or requiring multiple profiles for users who perform different tasks across apps in your org. Permission sets are useful when a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires more access than the rest of their team for some specific tasks or functions. For example, a user may need access to a custom object or field that is not available to their profile, but only for a limited time or project. In this case, assigning a permission set to the user can grant them the additional access they need without affecting their profile or other users with the same profile.
