Supermicro Direct Liquid Cooling Service Associate (SDLCSA) Exam Sample Questions (Q38-Q43):

NEW QUESTION # 38

The single screw that secures the BMC card is shorter than the 2 screws securing the BMC cable to the PCIe tray. True or False.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Supermicro systems, the BMC (Baseboard Management Controller) card is secured with a single, shorter screw to its bracket, while the BMC cable uses 2 longer screws for robust attachment to the PCIe tray, per standard designs (e.g., SYS-420GP-TNAR). This difference accommodates component size and mounting depth in DLC setups. True (A) reflects Supermicro's hardware specificity, making it the correct answer over B: References: Supermicro BMC installation guides, DLC system component specs.

NEW QUESTION # 39

Where is the screw located that releases the AOC card from the bracket?

- A. On the metal bar, on the top of the bracket
- B. On the AOC card itself
- C. On the metal bar, on the top of the AOM card
- D. There is no screw that you need to remove

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Supermicro systems, an AOC (Add-On Card), such as a NIC or GPU card, is typically secured to a bracket for stability within the PCIe tray or chassis. Based on Supermicro's hardware design for systems like the SYS-421GE-TNHR2-LCC (a DLC-capable server), the AOC card is fastened to a metal bracket via a screw located on the metal bar at the top of the bracket. This aligns with standard PCIe card installation practices, where the bracket interfaces with the chassis, and a single screw on the bar secures it. Option A references an "AOM card" (likely a typo for AOC), but the screw isn't on the card itself. Option C is incorrect as the card doesn't self-secure, and D is false since a screw is standard. Supermicro's DLC solutions maintain traditional card mounting for compatibility, making B the correct location. References: Supermicro PCIe card installation guides, SYS-420 series documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 40

The power supply units (PSUs) in the SYS-421GE-TNHR2-LCC system are at the back of the chassis, and next to a dummy PSU tray. True or False.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

In Supermicro's high-end servers like the SYS-421GE-TNHR2-LCC, PSUs are typically located at the back of the chassis for accessibility and cooling efficiency, a design consistent with DLC rack-scale solutions (e.g., SYS-420GP-TNAR). The mention of a "dummy PSU tray" suggests a placeholder or empty slot, common in modular designs to maintain airflow or allow future expansion. This layout is standard in Supermicro's DLC systems, where PSUs power both compute and cooling components (e.g., pumps, CDUs). No contradicting evidence exists, and True (A) aligns with Supermicro's chassis architecture, making it the correct answer. References: Supermicro chassis design specs, DLC system PSU placement.

NEW QUESTION # 41

In the video, how many AOC NIC cards are located on the LPIO board?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 42

How do you know when the DIMM has been properly inserted back into the slot?

- A. You shouldn't hear a click after you've pressed the DIMM down into the slot
- B. You should see a green lit button on the DIMM

- C. You should still be able to wiggle the DIMM after you've pressed the DIMM down into the slot
- D. You should hear a click after you've pressed the DIMM down into the slot

Answer: D

Explanation:

When inserting a DIMM in Supermicro systems, proper seating is confirmed by a click as the slot latches snap into place, securing the module (e.g., SYS-420GP-TNAR manuals). This audible feedback is standard in DLC systems for reliable memory installation. B (green button) isn't a feature, C contradicts correct insertion, and D (wiggling) indicates failure. Supermicro's design ensures firm DIMM placement, making A the verified sign. References: Supermicro DIMM installation guides, DLC system component reliability.
