CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q106-Q111):

NEW QUESTION # 106

A user replaces their PC power supply and connects it to the components, but the PC fails to start. What is the most likely cause?

- A. The wattage is insufficient
- B. The computer requires additional RAM
- C. The 4-pin CPU power connector is not connected
- D. The PSU only works in redundant setups

Answer: C

Explanation:

Modern motherboards require both the 24-pin ATX connector and a 4-pin or 8-pin CPU power connector. If the CPU power connector is not attached, the motherboard will receive power but the system will not boot.

CompTIA A+ specifically lists this as a common mistake after replacing a power supply.

Insufficient wattage may cause instability, but usually the system still attempts to start. RAM does not prevent power-on if missing; instead, the system produces beep codes. Redundant PSUs are used in servers, not standard desktops.

Therefore, the missing CPU power connector is the most likely cause, and this scenario reflects typical troubleshooting steps outlined in A+ hardware diagnostics.

NEW QUESTION # 107

A group of friends is gathering in a room to play video games. One of the friends has a game server. Which of the following network types should the group use so they can all connect to the same server and the internet?

- A. PAN
- B. MAN
- C. LAN
- D. SAN

Answer: C

Explanation:

The appropriate network type for this scenario is a Local Area Network (LAN), which is designed for small, localized networks, such as within a single building or room. LANs are ideal for gaming because they provide high-speed, low-latency connections.

Option A (SAN): Incorrect. A Storage Area Network is used for data storage, not for gaming or general networking.

Option B (MAN): Incorrect. A Metropolitan Area Network covers a city or campus, far exceeding the scope needed for a gaming setup in a single room.

Option D (PAN): Incorrect. A Personal Area Network is designed for a single user, such as Bluetooth devices, and would not support multiple devices connecting to a game server.

NEW QUESTION # 108

Which of the following allows an organization to provide remote desktop resources without providing physical workstations to its users?

- A. SaaS
- B. RMM
- C. VDI
- D. Containers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Virtual Desktop Infrastructure (VDI) hosts user desktops on centralized servers rather than physical PCs. Users access a virtual desktop session remotely through thin clients, laptops, or web browsers. The CompTIA A+ cloud-computing domain explains that VDI improves manageability, security, and resource efficiency by allowing IT to centralize OS images, apps, and updates. SaaS provides applications not desktops. RMM is for monitoring and managing devices. Containers virtualize applications, not full desktops.

VDI enables organizations to avoid purchasing physical desktops while still delivering full computing environments to users, which aligns with the A+ virtualization objectives and remote-access concepts.

NEW QUESTION # 109

Which of the following best represents the purpose of NFC?

- A. Wireless connections between multiple devices at once
- B. Direct connection of two computers for file sharing
- C. Short-distance wireless connections between two devices
- D. Wired connections between several devices

Answer: C

Explanation:

NFC (Near-Field Communication) is a subset of RFID technology designed for very short-range wireless communication, typically within a few centimeters. It is primarily used for contactless transactions, like mobile payments, and can also support peer-to-peer data exchanges. NFC operates at 13.56 MHz and enables devices to communicate when placed near each other.

NEW QUESTION # 110

A customer has bare-metal servers running Windows, Linux, and Unix. They want consolidation while maintaining isolation and compatibility. What should the technician recommend?

- A. VDI
- B. Type 2 hypervisor
- C. Containers
- D. IaaS

Answer: D

Explanation:

The customer wants to consolidate multiple physical servers running different operating systems, including Windows, Linux, and Unix, while maintaining strong isolation between systems. CompTIA A+ identifies Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS) as the best model for hosting fully isolated virtual machines in a cloud environment, allowing each OS to run independently on its own virtual hardware.

IaaS provides virtualized computing resources-CPU, RAM, networking, and storage-while allowing the customer full control over the OS and application layer. This means Windows, Linux, and Unix VMs can coexist without compatibility concerns because each VM runs its native OS without modification.

Containers (B) are unsuitable because they share the host OS kernel, meaning they cannot run different OS families. A Type 2 hypervisor (C) is workstation-based and not designed for enterprise server consolidation. VDI (D) provides user desktops, not server workload consolidation.

Thus, IaaS is the correct solution for compatibility, isolation, and consolidation across multiple OS types.
