ISACA CISM: What resources should you use to prepare for the certification exam?

The CISM Certification Exam is not quite easy. You will have to make an effort in order to pass it. Even if you have significant competence in the industry, you must take the appropriate training. Thus, those professionals who have about 3-5 years of experience in the IS industry say that they needed two months of 3-4 hours a day learning and practicing in order to pass the test.

ISACA Certified Information Security Manager Sample Questions (Q601-Q606):

NEW QUESTION # 601

When analyzing the emerging risk and threat landscape, an information security manager should FIRST:

- A. map threats to business assets.
- B. determine the sources of emerging threats.
- C. review historical threats within the industry.
- D. determine the impact if threats materialize.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 602

Which of the following is the BEST way to compete for funding for an information security program in an organization with limited resources?

- A. Demonstrate that the program enables business activities.
- B. Report key performance indicator (KPI) trends.
- C. Provide evidence of increased security events at peer organizations.
- D. Demonstrate the effectiveness of business continuity plans (BCPs).

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Step-by-Step Explanation:

The goal of securing funding for an information security program often requires aligning the program with business goals and demonstrating its value to the organization. Here's an analysis of each option:

- * A. Demonstrate the effectiveness of business continuity plans (BCPs): While important, this focuses on continuity rather than the overall value of the information security program to business objectives. This is not the strongest method to justify funding.
- * B. Report key performance indicator (KPI) trends: KPI trends are useful for tracking performance but may not directly demonstrate how the program supports business activities or adds value.
- * C. Demonstrate that the program enables business activities: This is the BEST option because it ties the information security program directly to business operations. When security is seen as an enabler (e.g., reducing risks in critical areas like customer data protection), stakeholders are more likely to allocate resources.
- * D. Provide evidence of increased security events at peer organizations: This may indicate a general threat landscape but does not provide concrete evidence of the program's value or relevance to the organization's specific goals.

Reference: CISM Job Practice Area 1 (Information Security Governance) emphasizes aligning information security strategies with organizational objectives to gain stakeholder support.
