Microsoft Operationalizing Machine Learning and Generative AI Solutions Sample Questions (Q53-Q58):

NEW QUESTION # 53

A team is developing a generative AI assistant. The team is experimenting with multiple prompt variants to improve the user experience.

When comparing prompt variants, the team plans to assess whether the generated responses are grammatically correct.

You need to evaluate the quality of the language from the generated responses.

Which evaluator should you use?

- A. Coherence
- B. Grounded ness
- C. Fluency
- D. Textual similarity

Answer: C

Explanation:

The best evaluator within the Microsoft ecosystem for checking the grammatical correctness of generative AI responses--especially when testing multiple prompt variants--is the Azure AI Evaluator for Fluency, available within Azure AI Foundry.

Fluency Evaluator (builtin.fluency)

Purpose: Specifically designed to measure the effectiveness and clarity of written communication.

Grammatical Focus: It assesses grammatical accuracy, sentence structure, punctuation, and vocabulary usage in AI-generated text.

Result: It provides a 1-5 Likert scale score, allowing you to compare which prompt variants produce the most grammatically correct, natural-sounding responses.

NEW QUESTION # 54

Hotspot Question

You train a model in Azure Machine Learning.

You plan to capture experiment details for later comparison. The training code must log parameters and metrics for each run.

You review the following training script.

You need to verify whether the training script meets the experiment tracking requirement. For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

NEW QUESTION # 55

Hotspot Question

A machine learning model is deployed to production in Azure Machine Learning and is actively serving predictions for a business application. The model was trained by using a historical dataset that represented expected input patterns at the time of deployment.

The team working on the model must ensure the following:

- Changes in input data distribution are detected.

- Appropriate actions are triggered when predefined thresholds are exceeded.

You need to configure monitoring to meet the requirements.

Which configuration should you use for each requirement? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

NEW QUESTION # 56

A financial services company is deploying Microsoft Foundry to host generative AI workloads that process regulated customer data. The Microsoft Foundry environment must prevent any public network exposure while still allowing services managed by Microsoft Foundry to communicate with dependent Azure resources.

Security auditors require that all traffic to and from the Microsoft Foundry resource remain on private networks, with no public endpoints available.

You need to configure the Microsoft Foundry environment so that network access is restricted while maintaining full platform functionality.

Which two actions should you perform? Each correct answer presents part of the solution.

Choose two.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

- A. Deploy the Microsoft Foundry resource in a separate Azure subscription.
- B. Disable all inbound network access.

- C. Disable public network access to the Microsoft Foundry resource.
- D. Configure a managed virtual network for the Microsoft Foundry resource.
- E. Use API key authentication for all model endpoints.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

To host generative AI workloads in a Microsoft Foundry environment with strictly private communication and no public network exposure, you must configure a Managed Virtual Network (Managed VNet) with specific isolation settings and disable all public inbound access.

[A]

Enable Managed Virtual Network Isolation

During the creation of your Azure AI Foundry hub, navigate to the Networking tab.

Select the Private with Approved Outbound isolation mode. This mode ensures that all outbound traffic from the managed compute resources is restricted to only the destinations you explicitly approve, such as dependent Azure resources.

Once enabled, this isolation mode cannot be disabled.

[E]

Disable Public Inbound Access

In the Networking tab of your Foundry resource, set Public network access to Disabled.

This action blocks all traffic from the public internet, ensuring the resource is only accessible through private connections.

NEW QUESTION # 57

Hotspot Question

A team trains an MLflow model that scores customer churn risk. The model will be consumed by different downstream systems.

One system requests predictions synchronously during customer interactions.

Another system submits files containing millions of records for scheduled scoring.

You need to deploy the model by using managed inference options that match each usage pattern.

Which option should you use for each usage pattern? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
