NEW QUESTION # 111
In the context of a swarm mode cluster, does this describe a node?
Solution: a physical machine participating in the swarm

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 112
Two development teams in your organization use Kubernetes and want to deploy their applications while ensuring that Kubernetes-specific resources, such as secrets, are grouped together for each application.
Is this a way to accomplish this?
Solution: Add all the resources to the default namespace.

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:
Adding all the resources to the default namespace is not a way to accomplish this, because it would not isolate the resources for each application. Instead, the teams should use namespaces, which are a mechanism to organize resources in a Kubernetes cluster. Namespaces provide a scope for names of resources and a way to attach authorization and policy to a subset of the cluster. By creating a separate namespace for each application, the teams can ensure that their resources are grouped together and not accessible by other teams or applications.
