NEW QUESTION # 82

During Dell Avamar garbage collection, which backups are candidates for deletion?

- A. Backups that failed HFS check
- B. Partial backups older than seven days
- C. Backups that were replicated to Data Domain
- D. Backups of clients that have been retired

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

For initial backup of Avamar clients, it's best to start with a small number of clients to produce a dataset from which commonality will be generated. This will increase the backup speed of following clients. On a new Avamar system, consider enabling overtime because all the data is new and there won't be much maintenance to take place. Never enable overtime on an existing Avamar, rather configure the use of partial backups to be saved. Partial backups are saved for 7 days and are not deleted by the garbage collection process. When an unfinished job ends before completing and partial backups are enabled, the backup job will continue from the last known state and will complete faster.

NEW QUESTION # 83

When sizing a large file server on an Dell Avamar, how many bytes per file are added to the file cache?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

The most important thing to do on a client with so many files is to make sure that the file cache is sized appropriately. The file cache is responsible for the vast majority (>90%) of the performance of the Avamar client. If there's a file cache miss, the client has to go and thrash your disk for a while chunking up a file that may already be on the server.

So how to tune the file cache size?

The file cache starts at 22MB in size and doubles in size each time it grows. Each file on a client will use 44 bytes of space in the file cache (two SHA-1 hashes consuming 20 bytes each and 4 bytes of metadata). For 25 million files, the client will generate just over 1GB of cache data.
