Salesforce Certified Platform Developer II - Multiple Choice Sample Questions (Q107-Q112):

NEW QUESTION # 107
A developer is trying to decide between creating a Visualforce component or a Lightning component for a custom screen. Which functionality consideration impacts the final decision?

- A. Will the screen make use of a JavaScript framework?

- B. Will the screen be accessed via a mobile app?
- C. Does the screen need to be rendered as a PDF without using a thirdparty application?
- D. Does the screen need to be accessible from the Lightning Experience UI?

Answer: C

Explanation:
Visualforce can render pages as PDFs, which Lightning Components cannot do. This functionality is crucial if PDF rendering is required.

NEW QUESTION # 108
What is the optimal way to fix this?
A)

B)

C)

D)

- A. Option B
- B. Option D
- C. Option C
- D. Option A

Answer: C

Explanation:
Test.startTest() and Test.stopTest() should wrap the method call for resource allocation. Test.setMock() sets a mock callout for the test to handle callouts.

NEW QUESTION # 109
Universal Containers needs to integrate with their own, existing, internal custom web application. The web application accepts JSON payloads, resizes product images, and sends the resized images back to Salesforce.
What should the developer use to implement this integration?

- A. A flow that calls an @future method that allows callouts
- B. A platform event that makes a callout to the web application
- C. A flow with an outbound message that contains a session ID
- D. An Apex trigger that calls an @future method that allows callouts

Answer: D

Explanation:
In a scenario where an integration requires making a callout to an external web application, Apex is often used to perform callouts. The callout must be asynchronous when being made from a trigger because a callout cannot be made from a synchronous operation like a trigger due to the possibility of long-running transactions.
Option A (An Apex trigger that calls an @future method that allows callouts) is correct because it enables the trigger to perform an asynchronous callout to the external web application, which is necessary for sending JSON payloads and receiving the resized images.
Options B, C, and D do not fit the requirement as well as option A because platform events and flows are typically not used for making direct callouts to external systems in the context described.

NEW QUESTION # 110
The use of the transient keyword in Visualforce page controllers helps with which common performance issue?

- A. Improves query performance
- B. Reduces load times
- C. Reduces view state

- D. Improves page transfers

Answer: C

Explanation:
The transient keyword in Visualforce page controllers marks variables that should not be part of the view state, which can significantly reduce the size of the view state. This can help avoid view state limit errors and improve page performance because a smaller view state requires less time to send to the client.

NEW QUESTION # 111
A developer implemented a custom data table in a Lightning web component with filter functionality. However, users are submitting support tickets about long load times when the filters are changed. The component uses an Apex method that is called to query for records based on the selected filters.
What should the developer do to improve performance of the component?

- A. Return all records into a list when the component is created and filter the array In JavaScript.
- B. Use a selective SOQL query with a custom Index.
- C. Use setstoraclel() in the Apex method to store the response In the client-side cache.
- D. Use SOSL to query the records on filter change.

Answer: B

Explanation:
When faced with performance issues in a Lightning Web Component (LWC) due to SOQL query load times, the optimal approach is often to improve the query's selectivity. This can be achieved by using a selective SOQL query with a custom index. Salesforce can create custom indexes to improve the performance of queries that cannot be optimized through standard indexing. When a query is selective, it can efficiently retrieve records from the database using the index, thus reducing the query execution time and speeding up the component's performance when filters are changed. The other options (returning all records, using SOSL, or client-side caching) do not directly address the root cause of the performance issue, which is the need for a more efficient database operation.
Make SOQL Query Selective
Use of Indexes in SOQL Queries
