GInI Certified Innovation Professional (CInP) Sample Questions (Q143-Q148):

NEW QUESTION # 143

The third step for projects in the Back End is for teams to establish a _____ for the offering they intend to deliver. This will capture the form and function of the offering, what brand language will be used for it, and how the business intends to deliver a particular brand experience around it.

- A. Design Strategy
- B. Strategic Plan
- C. Marketing Plan
- D. Development Plan

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the Back End phase of the GIMI Breakthrough Innovation Method, establishing a Design Strategy is crucial. This step involves defining the form and function of the product or offering and ensuring that the brand's language, messaging, and experience align with the desired brand image and consumer expectations.

The design strategy captures the key elements necessary to deliver a cohesive and compelling brand experience. It focuses on how the offering will appear, how it will be experienced by customers, and how the product or service will fit within the broader brand narrative. This includes aspects such as design aesthetics, user experience, and the way the offering communicates with its audience through visuals, interactions, and messaging. The Innovation Professional (CInP) curriculum underscores that a well-crafted design strategy is essential for the successful launch and market integration of an innovation, ensuring that the offering resonates with customers while staying true to the brand's core values.

NEW QUESTION # 144

In running a Pilot (associated with Stage 5 of the GIMI InMS), the scale of the pilot, and the level of "maturity" of the offering will often be a function of what?

- A. The eagerness of the Innovation Team driving the project.
- B. The dictates of the business' executive management team.
- C. The size and age of the business, the industry it is in, and what high-value brands it does or does not own that it needs to protect.
- D. The breadth and depth of the business' portfolio of offerings, as well as how many different brands it has.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Stage 5 of the GIMI Innovation Management System (InMS), which focuses on running a Pilot, the scale and maturity of the pilot are often influenced by several key business factors. The size and age of the business, the industry it operates in, and the brands it owns or doesn't own all play a significant role in determining how large or small the pilot should be, as well as how developed the offering needs to be at that stage. A business with an established brand or market presence may be more cautious in its approach to piloting a new product or service to protect its reputation and assets, whereas a newer or smaller business may be more flexible or aggressive in testing innovative concepts. The Innovation Professional (CInP) curriculum emphasizes that these strategic considerations are essential in shaping the scope and focus of a pilot, ensuring that the business mitigates risk while testing new ideas.

NEW QUESTION # 145

Innovation Professionals are called upon to use their creativity in order to resourcefully arrange things in new ways to arrive at some desired new end point.

Select one correct answer from the list:

- A. Connecting the dots
- B. Their analytical abilities

- C. Their creativity
- D. Their imagination

Answer: C

Explanation:

GInI's CInP Handbook frames innovation as a discipline rooted in "creativity"-the ability to "resourcefully arrange things in new ways" to achieve novel, valuable outcomes (e.g., new products, processes). This aligns with GInI's core definition of innovation as novel value creation, requiring professionals to think divergently and recombine ideas, resources, or insights into a "desired new end point." "Analytical abilities" (A) are vital for evaluation (Mid Zone), but the question emphasizes arrangement, not analysis. "Imagination" (B) is a facet of creativity, but GInI uses the broader term to encompass both vision and action. "Connecting the dots" (C) is a skill within creativity, but less comprehensive than the full creative process GInI intends. Option D matches the handbook's emphasis on creativity as the driving force, aligning with the original answer. This reflects GInI's view of innovation professionals as creative problem-solvers, a competency honed through methods like Design Thinking and reinforced by GInI's certification-a foundational trait distinguishing them in practice.

NEW QUESTION # 146

The final step for projects in the Back End is to ramp up production and deliver of the offering. This completes the process of taking a new idea from concept to reality, and - because of scaling up the offering - is where the business will finally begin to do what? Select one correct answer from the list

- A. Realize its return on the investment.
- B. Reward the team that launched the offering.
- C. Relax and enjoy the benefits for the next several years.
- D. Be able to tout how innovative it is.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 147

After having a number of teams conduct further validation and scoping on their respective projects in the Front End, a business is then able to ask of each one "Is it a problem worth solving?" Select one correct answer from the list:

- A. Problem behind a problem
- B. Customer they care about
- C. Once-in-a-lifetime opportunity
- D. Problem worth solving

Answer: D

Explanation:

GInI's CInP Handbook notes that post-Front End validation and scoping, businesses assess projects by asking, "Is it a problem worth solving?" -evaluating if the issue merits resources based on impact, scale, and alignment. This gatekeeping question ensures focus on significant challenges. "Once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" (A) is hyperbolic. "Customer they care about" (B) shifts to audience, not problem. "Problem behind a problem" (D) is a reframing tactic, not the decision point. Option C matches GInI's exact phrasing, aligning with the original answer, reflecting a pragmatic, value-driven filter-a GInI principle for prioritizing innovation efforts.
