Cisco Developing Applications using Cisco Core Platforms and APIs (DEVCOR) Sample Questions (Q115-Q120):

NEW QUESTION # 115

While working with the Webex Teams API, on an application that uses end-to-end encryption, a webhook has been received. What must be considered to read the message?

- A. Webhook returns the full unencrypted message. Only the body is needed to query the API.
- B. Webhook returns message identification. To query, the API is needed for that message to get the decrypted information.
- C. Webhook information cannot be used to read the message because of end-to-end encryption. The API key is needed to decrypt the message.
- D. Webhook returns a hashed version of the message that must be unhashed with the API key.

Answer: B

Explanation:

room messages are considered sensitive information and since Webex initiated the request to your backend, it did not have your Access Token with which to decrypt the message. In order to get the sensitive information, your app needs to use the resource id to fetch the full resource. Using the above messages example, your app could fetch the complete message object along with the text by doing an authenticated (via your Bearer Token) GET request to `/messages/{id}`

NEW QUESTION # 116

DRAG DROP

Refer to the exhibit. A system administrator has installed a Linux-based alarm system in their home that can execute a Bash shell script when an intruder is detected. Drag and drop the code snippets from the left onto the item numbers on the right that match the missing sections in the exhibit to create a chat-ops script that will notify of alarms via the Webex Teams REST API. Not all code snippets are used.

Answer:

NEW QUESTION # 117

Which two statements describe advantages of static code analysis over unit tests? (Choose two.)

- A. It estimates the performance of the code when run.
- B. It performs a quick analysis of whether tests will pass or fail when run.
- C. It checks for potential tainted data where input is not checked.
- D. It checks for race conditions in threaded applications.
- E. It enforces proper coding standards and style.

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

Taint sources are locations in the program where data is being read from a potentially risky source, and include things like environment variables, data, files, file metadata.

This is something that we look at during static code analysis along with proper coding style and standards.

NEW QUESTION # 118

Drag and Drop Question

A developer creates Python code to manage a Cisco Firepower Device Management-enabled device. Drag and drop the code snippets from the bottom onto the blanks in the Python script to delete a port object named Application-1 from the device. Not all options are used.

Answer:

Explanation:

□ Explanation:

!⇒ Ensures error handling when the response status code is not 200.

response.text⇒ Extracts the JSON response content from the API call.

id⇒ Retrieves and assigns the correct object ID for deletion.

header⇒ Provides the necessary headers for the DELETE request.

NEW QUESTION # 119

Refer to the exhibit. An engineer is automating network device retrieval from Cisco Catalyst Center. The script encounters a 500 Internal Server Error and uses control flow. Which code snippet must be placed on the box in the code to exit on unrecoverable server errors?

□

- A. □
- B. □
- C. □
- D. □

Answer: C

Explanation:

After catching a `requests.exceptions.HTTPError`, you want to terminate the entire script when you hit an unrecoverable 5xx error.

That means calling `exit(1)` rather than merely returning from a function. The selected snippet both logs the exception (`{err}`) and then invokes `exit(1)`, ensuring the script stops on server-side failures:

```
if response.status_code >= 500:
```

```
    print(f"Critical error: {err}. Exiting.")
```

```
    exit(1)
```
